BRITISH BOTTLE UP U-BOAT BASE AT OSTEND

Daring Naval Enterprise Results in Sinking of Cruiser Vindictive Across Entrance to Harbor--British Casualties Small.

Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, May 10.—British naval forces carried out another brilliant successful coup last night. They shed down upon the Belgian coast a daring sea way to the important German submarine base at Ostend by sinking the cruiser Vindictive across the entrance to the harbor.
The operation was similar to that of the Zeebrugge raid when that submarine nest was made ineffective by the sinking of the cruiser Vindictive. The Vindictive, which had been a leader in the Zeebrugge raid and was badly shot up there, was filled in cement and sunk last night between the piers at the outlet of the tend harbor.
The enterprise was successful from every point of view. The only loss sustained by the British was a motor launch while the casualties were light. The blocking of the Ostend and Zeebrugge harbors will go down in history of the war as two of the most daring exploits of the navy. Both submarine bases, the Germans have batteries of long range guns and keep a keen lookout for attacking parties.
The text of the official report issued on the Ostend raid by the admiralty today follows:
"The operation designed to close the ports of Ostend and Zeebrugge successfully completed last night. The cruiser Vindictive, which was sunk between the piers at the entrance to the harbor. Since the attack on Zeebrugge on April 23 the Vindictive had been filled with concrete and used as a block ship. Our light forces returned to their base with the loss of one motor launch which was damaged and sunk by orders of the vice-admiral to prevent it from falling into the hands of the enemy. Our casualties were light."
Both of Germany's submarine bases on the Belgian coast are now out of commission.
Not only were two block ships (filled with concrete) sunk across the Zeebrugge harbor but the mole was cut.
On the night of April 22 a naval force under Vice Admiral Keyes swooped down upon the Belgian coast under cover of mist, part of the ships attacking Ostend and the balance Zeebrugge. The British were emulating the feat which Captain Hobson tried at Santiago and the Japanese at Port Arthur.
The leader of the British forces was the Vindictive, the other units being obsolete craft and ferries. At Ostend two block ships were sunk while three were sunk at Zeebrugge, although one went ashore before the men could work it into the position where they wanted it.
The fog blew away at Ostend and the Germans were able to direct a heavy fire against the British and naval units.
At Zeebrugge landing parties were sent ashore and did immense damage to the German military works.
The Vindictive was badly battered by German shell fire while taking part in the previous raid at Zeebrugge.
The Vindictive played an important part in the preceding operation. She is a light cruiser, displacing 5,750 tons. The Vindictive was built in 1895 and normally carried a complement of 450 men. Her armament consisted of ten six-inch guns, eight three inch guns, one three pounder and five machine guns.

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

In the continued absence of any big scale operations on the battle front interest swung away from the fighting zones today to a brilliant enterprise carried out by the British navy which has resulted in the sinking of the German submarine base at Ostend.

The old cruiser Vindictive, filled with concrete, was sunk across the entrance to the Ostend harbor on the Belgian coast and now both Ostend and Zeebrugge (the two submarine bases on the Belgian coast) have been rendered ineffective as submarine retreats.

The closing of these two harbors is bound to have important effect on the German U-boat operations for the Germans will be compelled to use Heligoland as a base, which is far distant from the usual hunting grounds and which has already been rendered fairly ineffective by huge mine fields which the British have planted in the area.

The British operation against Ostend met with none of the untoward features that had marked the double raid against Ostend and Zeebrugge on the night of April 22-23. Only one motor launch was lost tonight, while the British casualties were very light.

While bombardments have continued along the southern end of the Ploeghe front, the British carried out a local operation west of Albert (in the northern zone), which gave them possession of an advanced trench which the Germans had occupied Thursday morning.

There have been no actions of any consequence on the Flanders front although the Germans continue to mass troops. All of the battles in Belgium are reported to be crisscrossed with German reserves ready to go to the front when von Hindenburg resumes his drive.

The Germans are reported to be concentrating at three points in Belgium and on the Amiens front.

There is no decisive indication as to where the offensive will be made, although there is a disposition on the part of the French military writers to believe that it will come between Albert and Amiens, that it will be launched in the general direction of St. Pol with a view to reducing the Arras salient.

(Albert is about seventeen miles northeast of Amiens).

This was the fifty-first day of the German offensive, but for nearly six weeks now the Germans have been comparatively inactive.

After deliberating for about four hours the jury in the action for damages brought by Mrs. Teresa Sisco against Earl C. Beardslee and Mattie M. Beardslee, brought in a verdict for $300 in favor of the plaintiff, in Supreme Court Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Sisco alleged that on July 15, 1917, she was riding in an automobile on the Kingston-Saugerties state road, as the guest of John Sisco, and that defendants, riding in a car and going twenty-five or thirty miles an hour, tried to pass between a wagon and the car in which she was riding, upsetting the Sisco car and causing her to be thrown out and injured. The other occupants also were thrown out when the auto overturned. Mrs. Sisco was represented by Andrew J. Cook; the defendants by former City Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr.

Kingston Point Park, under the management of the Board of Public Works, will open for the season on Decoration Day, May 30, and the residents of Kingston will find many improvements at the famous pleasure resort.

David Burgevin, chairman of the park committee of the Board of Public Works, stated today that the committee has planned to hold band concerts three or four times a week, and that a band concert will open the park on Decoration Day. All of the concessions had been leased and there will be several new attractions in full swing on opening day.

The committee has planned to install a number of swings and slides for the children and the sandy beach near the band stand is being placed in first class shape for the kiddies.

The rowboats have been repaired and the entire park is now spick and span.

John Q. Smith will be retained as park superintendent owing to his efficient work in past seasons.

The music box on the band stand will be removed and stored away, and what music there is will be furnished by a brass band, which will be welcome news to all who care to patronize the park.

Now that the city has leased the park and has planned a number of improvements, there is no question but there will be a record breaking attendance Decoration Day and thereafter.

There is no truth to the rumor that Willite walks are being laid in the park, but as a matter of fact, the roadway on North street from East Union street and from North street along Delaware avenue to the park entrance is being put in readiness for Willite.

GIVE OUR BOYS A BIG SEND-OFF TOMORROW

Another contingent of our boys will leave town tomorrow morning for the National Army cantonment at Fort Slocum.

There will be seven boys from Division No. 1 and seven from Division No. 2. The committee on arrangements for parades and Grand Marshal Atkins have completed their plans for a demonstration in their honor.

Only fourteen boys are going away tomorrow, but each one of them is as dear to Kingston and Ulster county as any of the other boys who have gone away for war service or who will yet go. We, who stay at home, can do many things to show our appreciation of the boys who will fight for us, who will protect us from the rule of the Hun. The least we can do is to demonstrate our best wishes by seeing them off when they leave town. We have done it before and we will do it again, and whatever our personal feelings may be, we will "Send them away with a smile" and a cheer.

It will not take much of anybody's time to take part in tomorrow's demonstration. So many others will be there to see them and bid them a God-speed that but little business can be transacted until after they have left town. So why not make the send-off unanimous?

Our boys are going overseas rapidly. Washington officials have said a million soldiers will be abroad by the first of July. Perhaps all of our boys will be among the million—some of them certainly will be included, and it may be that some of tomorrow's detail will be going "Over There" before long.

Every organization and every persons intending to parade should be in line on Main street by 8:10 o'clock so that the parade can start promptly. Others should be on hand along the line of march or at the West Shore station.

HOW FARMERS CAN GET SUMMER HELP

The New York State Boys' Working Reserve and the board of education of New York city have registered about 2,000 boys who are anxious and ready to help the farmers in their work this summer. Already over 500 high school boys from New York, from 16 to 21, are working on farms in the Hudson valley, and others are going out every day. Many of the boys can plough, harrow, drive autos or tractors, while others were out last summer working on gardens, etc.

The state contract relative to pay reads as follows:

"I agree to employ these boys for a minimum of 12 (twelve) weeks at a wage of not less than $3.75 per week for the first four weeks; $5 per week for the second four weeks; $6.25 per week for the third four weeks. I agree to pay the boy weekly."

A boy not giving satisfactory service is taken care of in contract as follows:

"I agree, if the boy is unsatisfactory, to give the local director and the boy one week's notice or to give the boy one week's pay at the rate he would be receiving for that week, furnishing the local director with a statement in writing giving my reasons for desiring the boy's withdrawal."

These boys are excused with full credit for their school work this term by the State Education Department, so failure on their part means six months' additional work in high school.

H. W. Millsbaugh, with headquarters at Walkkill, Ulster county, N. Y., is the Ulster county representative of the New York board of education and he will be glad to call on any farmer who may be interested. Communicate directly with him or with C. F. Cochrane, agricultural agent of Ulster county, at Kingston. Mr. Millsbaugh will be glad to present the matter of high school boy labor at regular grange meetings or at special meetings.

ABRAM VAN AKEN KILLED BY TRAIN

Was Walking Railroad Tracks, This Morning Near Port Ewen Station. When Hit—About 90 Years Old and Hard of Hearing.

Abram Van Aken, a life long resident of Port Ewen, was instantly killed when struck by the 9:05 train from Kingston this morning on the West Shore tracks, a short distance south of the Port Ewen station. Coroner E. A. Kelly was notified and removed the body to his undertaking establishment on West Union street. The dead man, who was hard of hearing, was about 90 years of age.

From what could be learned, Mr. Van Aken was walking down the tracks in the direction of Ulster Park, and as he was hard of hearing, it is evident he did not hear the approaching train. At what is known as the second crossing, just below the Port Ewen station, the train struck him, hurling him against the crossing fence. Death was instantaneous. Mr. Van Aken's skull was crushed and his neck broken.

Mr. Van Aken has resided in Port Ewen all his life. In the house where he made his home with his wife, Henry R. Van Aken, and which is located near the railroad station. He was a man who was respected by all who knew him. Besides his son he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William F. Freer of New Salem. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Henry Dittus of Spruce street, employed by Campbell & Demsey, is home with a broken wrist. Wednesday while at work on a building at White Plains the scaffold on which he was standing gave way and he fell about twenty feet. His left wrist is broken in two places and he was badly shaken by the fall. That he was not more seriously injured is a wonder.

The draft will take 89,731 per cent of the total number of men in Class One in each state. The whole number now in Class One is 2,421,480. This number is expected to be materially increased, however, when the deferred classes have been culled through for persons listed in them through lax action by district boards.

The state quotas follow:

- Alabama, 17,811.
- Arizona, 2,255.
- Arkansas, 15,127.

- Vermont, 2,334.
- Virginia, 17,002.
- Washington, 7,906.
- West Virginia, 12,416.
- Wisconsin, 23,340.
- Wyoming, 2,874.

The provost marshal general, basing his calculation on the experience in recent levies, figures that approximately 364,328 men will be rejected in the next draft because of physical disqualifications. The cancellation by the house yesterday of its amendment to the draft quota legislation which would have given credit for volunteers allowed the provost marshal general to go ahead with the plan announced today.

The day of the next draft has not yet been set. It will not be until the differences between the house and senate over the exemption of divinity and medical students have been thrashed out.

Under the apportionment among the states for the first call for the National Army of 687,000 men, New York state's quota as announced by Provost Marshal General Crowder on July 13, 1917, was 69,241 men.

CONGRESS TOLD OF AIRCRAFT COST

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 10.—How the money appropriated by congress for aircraft was spent is shown in a statement of the finances of the Signal Corps as of April 30, presented to the senate this afternoon by Senator Thomas of Colorado.

The report shows that total appropriations and allotments for the aviation section of the Signal Corps have been $749,886,052.63. The total shows that expenditures have been contracted for on the fixed price basis to the extent of $556,473,969, and on the cost plus basis to the extent of $350,360,179. This shows that expenditures made and contracted for exceed appropriations and allotments by $157,453,995.60.

KINGSTON POINT KINGSTON POINT OPENS ON MAY 30

Band Concerts—All Concessions Leased With Some New Ones—No More Music Box—Swings For Children And Other Amusements.

Kingston Point Park, under the management of the Board of Public Works, will open for the season on Decoration Day, May 30, and the residents of Kingston will find many improvements at the famous pleasure resort.

David Burgevin, chairman of the park committee of the Board of Public Works, stated today that the committee has planned to hold band concerts three or four times a week, and that a band concert will open the park on Decoration Day. All of the concessions had been leased and there will be several new attractions in full swing on opening day.

The committee has planned to install a number of swings and slides for the children and the sandy beach near the band stand is being placed in first class shape for the kiddies. The rowboats have been repainted and the entire park is now spick and span.

John Q. Smith will be retained as park superintendent owing to his efficient work in past seasons. The music box on the band stand will be removed and stored away, and what music there is will be furnished by a brass band, which will welcome new to all who care to patronize the park.

Now that the city has leased the park and has planned a number of improvements, there is no question but there will be a record breaking attendance Decoration Day and thereafter.

There is no truth to the rumor that Willie walks are being laid in the park, but as a matter of fact, the roadway on North street from East Union street and from North street along Delaware avenue to the park entrance is being put in readiness for Willie.

GIVE OUR BOYS A BIG SEND-OFF TOMORROW

Another contingent of our boys will leave town tomorrow morning for the National Army cantonment at Fort Slocum.

There will be seven boys from Division No. 1 and seven from Division No. 2. The committee on arrangements for parades and Grand Marshal Atkins have completed their plans for a demonstration in their honor.

Only fourteen boys are going away tomorrow, but each one of them is as dear to Kingston and Ulster county as any of the other boys who have gone away for war service or who will yet go. We, who stay at home, can do many things to show our appreciation of the boys who will fight for us, who will protect us from the rule of the Hun. The least we can do is to demonstrate our best wishes by seeing them off when they leave town. We have done it before and we will do it again and whatever our personal feelings may be, we will "Send them away with a smile" and a cheer.

It will not take much of anybody's time to take part in tomorrow's demonstration. So many others will be there to see them and bid them a God-speed that but little business can be transacted until after the boys have left town. So why not make the send-off unanimous?

Our boys are going overseas rapidly. Washington officials have said a million soldiers will be abroad by the first of July. Perhaps a lot of our boys will be among the million—some of them certainly will be included, and it may be that some of tomorrow's detail will be going "Over There" before long.

Every organization and every person intending to parade should line up on Main street by 8:10 o'clock so that the parade can start promptly. Others should be on hand along the line of march or at the West Shore station.

HOW FARMERS CAN GET SUMMER HELP

The New York State Boys' Working Reserve and the board of education of New York city have registered about 2,000 boys who are anxious and ready to help the farmers their work this summer. Already over 500 high school boys from New York, from 16 to 21, are working on farms in the Hudson valley, and others are going out every day. Many of the boys can plough, harrow, drive autos or tractors, while others were out last summer working gardens, etc.

The state contract relative to the boys is as follows:

"I agree to employ these boys on my farm for the summer of 1918 at a wage of not less than $3.75 per week for the first four weeks; $5 per week for the second four weeks; $6.25 per week for the third four weeks. I agree to pay the boys' board of food."

A boy not giving satisfactory service is taken care of in contract as follows:

"I agree, if the boy is unsatisfactory, to give the local director and boy one week's notice or to give a boy one week's pay at the rate he would be receiving for that week, finishing the local director with statement in writing giving reasons for desiring the boy's withdrawal."

These boys are excused with credit for their school work this year by the State Educational Department so failure on their part means months' additional work in school.

H. W. Millsbaugh, with headquarters at Walkkill, Ulster county, N. Y. is the Ulster county representative of the New York board of education and he will be glad to call on farmer who may be interested. Millsbaugh will be glad to present matter of high school boy labor regular arrange meetings or at special meetings.

ABRAM VAN AKEN KILLED BY TRAIN

Was Walking Railroad Tracks. Morning Near Port Ewen Station When Hit—About 90 Years Old and Hard of Hearing.

Abram Van Aken, a life long resident of Port Ewen, was instantly killed when struck by the 9:05 a. m. train this morning on West Shore tracks, a short distance south of the Port Ewen station.

Coroner E. A. Kelly was notified removed the body to his undertakers establishment on West Union at the dead man, who was hard of hearing, was about 90 years of age.

From what could be learned Van Aken was walking down tracks in the direction of Ulster and as he was hard of hearing, he did not hear the approaching train. At what is known as a second crossing, just below the Ewen station, the train struck him against the crossing fence. Death was instantaneous. Van Aken's skull was crushed, his neck broken.

Mr. Van Aken has resided in Ewen all his life. In the house he made his home with his wife, Henry R. Van Aken, and which was located near the railroad station. He was a man who was respected by all who knew him. Besides his son he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Ham F. Proer of New Salem. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

In the continued absence of any big scale operations on the battle fronts interest swung away from the fighting zones today to a brilliant enterprise carried out by the British navy which has resulted in the bottling up of the German submarine base at Ostend.

The old cruiser Vindictive, filled with concrete, was sunk across the entrance to the Ostend harbor on the Belgian coast and now both Ostend and Zeebrugge (The two submarine bases on the Belgian coast) have been rendered ineffective as submarine retreats.

The closing of these two harbors is bound to have important effect in curbing German "U" boat operations for the Germans will be compelled to use Heligoland as a base, which is far distant from the usual submarine hunting fields and which has already been rendered fairly ineffective by huge mine fields which the British have planted in the North Sea.

The British operation against Ostend met with none of the unusual features that had marked the double raid against Ostend and Zeebrugge on the night of April 22-23. Only one motor launch was lost last night, while the British casualties were very light.

While bombardments have continued along the southern end of the Pegasus battle front, the British carried out a local operation northwest of Albert (in the northern zone) which gave them possession of an advanced trench which the Germans had occupied Thursday morning.

There have been no actions of any consequence on the Flanders front although the Germans continue to mass troops. All of the barbed wire in Brussels are reported to be crisscrossed with German reserves ready to go to the front when von Hindenburg resumes his drive.

The Germans are reported to be concentrating at three points in Flanders and on the Aisne front.

There is no decisive indication as to where the offensive will be renewed, although there is a disposition on the part of the French military writers to believe that it will come between Albert and Amiens, and that it will be launched in the general direction of St. Pol with a view to reducing the Arras salient.

This was the fifty-first day of the German offensive, but for nearly three weeks now the Germans have been comparatively inactive.

OGDENSBURG GETS PUBLIC MARKET

First City to Benefit Under Farm and Markets Law by Getting State Aid for Its Construction.

As the result of an investigation conducted by Commissioner Eugene H. Porter of the Foods and Markets Division of the Department of Farms and Markets, and a recommendation made by him to the Council of Farms and Markets, and subsequently endorsed by the council, the city of Ogdensburg gains the distinction of being the first municipality in the state to receive state aid in the construction of a public market. The bill granting aid to the city of Ogdensburg, which has been signed by Governor Whitman, carries an appropriation of $35,954 for this purpose—almost half the total cost of the market.

The Farms and Markets Law, as amended by Chapter 812, Laws of 1917, provides for the granting to cities of state aid for the construction of public markets. Cities desiring such aid must first establish a department of markets and then apply to the Council of Farms and Markets by petition. The council must thereupon cause an investigation to be made, the proposed site to be inspected, and the plans and specifications to be examined. After such investigation the council determines the necessity for the acquisition of lands and the construction of the market, and issues a certificate of its approval of the plans therefor.

The city of Ogdensburg first obtained a site, then established an open market, and a short time ago applied for state aid. Following this procedure, Commissioner Porter went to Ogdensburg in response to a petition from the city officials, and reaching the conclusion that the proposed market should be built on the site selected, he so reported to the Council of Farms and Markets and recommended to the council that the city's appeal be endorsed. Formal action of this character was taken, and a bill was introduced into the legislature during the closing days of the session. With the endorsement of Commissioner Porter and the council, the bill was passed both in the senate and in the assembly, and has now become law by the action of Governor Whitman.

SISTERS DISPUTE OVER PROPERTY

In the supreme court this morning the action brought by Dr. James Oliver of High Falls against Mrs. Esther J. Sahler, as administratrix of the estate of the late Frank V. Sahler, went to the jury at eleven o'clock.

Case 43 was then begun. This is an action brought by Angelina Whitney against her sister, Elizabeth Whitney. On December 13, 1906, the late Elizabeth Whitney, the mother of the plaintiff, made her will, leaving her property in the town of Shandaken, under certain conditions, to the daughters, Angelina and Elizabeth. A provision in the will stated that if either party sought to break the will she would be debarred from any portion of the estate.

Plaintiff claims that defendant has occupied property and has refused to let defendant have part of same, and has sold farm products, has collected rents from part of the property, and has not turned any portion of these receipts over to her.

Defendant claims that plaintiff brought a partition action which was an indirect attempt to break the will, and therefore because of this suit, by the provisions of the will the plaintiff is debarred from any share of the property.

County Judge James Jenkins and Augustus Shufeldt appeared for the plaintiff; Judge John G. Van Etten and Andrew J. Cook for the defendant.

A complaint has been made to police headquarters of cows running wild in North Rondout and damaging the war gardens there. If the wild cows are not kept within bounds they are likely to prove expensive for their owners.

It was reported to the water board today that the fire hydrant on North street was broken and leaking. It seems a shame to waste the water in one spot when it is needed on two other streets of the city, especially when the wind blows.

The street oil has not arrived yet it is expected any day. In the meantime many residents would not object to seeing the water wagon pass the house, for while the city wet the streets are mighty dry and dusty.

There were no arrests made during the night by the police department.

Alderman Preston of the First ward is of the opinion that the police department should get busy and station either one or two cops at the Broadway railroad crossing. The alderman does not favor the silent kind for that duty. He again called the attention of the other city fathers to the matter at the last session.

The police department at the present time can not spare any of the regulars for the duty outlined by Alderman Preston as they are short-handed now. The officer on duty in that section acts as traffic officer when he finds time, however.

Next Friday evening those who would like to join the regulars—in this case the police force—will meet at the city hall to take the examination, both mental and physical, as required by the local civil service board.

THEN AND NOW

By IMES MACDONALD.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Seven times in the last three weeks it had happened. Once it was a glove, once a scarf, twice a handkerchief. Seven times in all Laurens had returned late to his apartment to discover the air shaded with that indelible perfume—and some article of feminine apparel carelessly flung on his table. And always, from the slim vase on his mantel, there drooped a fresh rose.

He, Eduard Laurens, was buried up to his eyes in a mystery—a bewildering, opalescent, violet-scented mystery that was sprinkled with rose leaves and romance. He laughed softly as he touched the knob of his door and reached for his keys, when suddenly the knob turned in his hand, the door was drawn slowly open and he stood face to face with a strange young woman.

For a moment he thought he had made a mistake.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I thought this was Laurens' apartment."

"It is," she smiled slightly, gathering herself in hand. "I am Mrs. Laurens."

"I didn't know there was a Mrs. Laurens, but I've been out of town for some time. My name's—Barton," lied Laurens.

In an hour he returned and she was gone, but pinned to the curtain that shut off his music room was a note:

"I came once too often. Your friend, Mr. Barton, called and caught me as I was leaving. I beg of you to forgive me if any complications should arise from the awful fib I told him. It was the wonderful melodies of your new opera that first drew me down from the apartment above. I must caution you to have the latch fixed on the window on the fire escape. Under the circumstances I'm leaving the apartment upstairs tonight. This, of course, is good-by—and I'm sorry."

The next morning he was somewhat surprised to open his uptown studio door to an elderly man whom he remembered to have met at some time or other, but could not place.

"I hate to presume," said the old gentleman, "and I hate to ask favors, Mr. Laurens, but I've a niece who has studied abroad for three years. She thinks she can sing. I do not know, perhaps she can. She has heard of your new opera, and wants to be given a chance at a small singing part."

"Why," said Laurens, cordially, "I'd be very glad to give her voice a try-out. Bring her up tomorrow at three, if it is convenient."

And so the next day at three they came, and Laurens was astounded, for it was none other than the girl who claimed to be Mrs. Laurens.

"I was sure you could sing," he interrupted. "Is there anything in particular you would like to try?"

"The—opening song of—of—'Riane,'" she said, hesitatingly.

"How did you know about that?" he demanded. "Not more than three of my best friends have heard it as yet."

She dropped down on the bench beside him. "I—I stole the score from your apartment. That is—I copied as much of it as I could—and I've been working—working like mad on it. You were not you, the other night. It was very considerate."

In an instant she felt the strong grasp of sensitive hands on her own, and she looked into his fine eyes and marveled.

"But you—you mustn't misunderstand," she went on. "The roses—and things were a tribute to your genius, to the soul of your music, not a token to you as a man. Please understand that," she finished gently.

"Of course," he said in an absent detached way of his. And he turned to the piano and burst forth into the brilliant prelude of his opera. Then he swung abruptly into the melodies of the first number—and she sang.

He controlled his voice with an effort. "Katz must hear you tomorrow," he said. "He'll be crazy. Now try this!" And he broke into the "Passion Song" of the third act.

The flexibility of her voice was marvelous. It was so much part of her that unconsciously she acted as she sang. She couldn't help it. As she began the second song, a stocky, grizzled little man stood just within the door listening intently while she poured out the pent-up love of all the ages.

"What do you think of her, Katz?" he chuckled.

"You ask me I think of such a voice! Laurens, I go mad to find us a 'Riane'—unt she is here!"

Six months later Laurens stood in the star's dressing room face to face with Riane.

"Well," he said softly, "are you satisfied?"

"No!" she said, in spite of the flush of victory on her cheeks. "I find that something besides success is necessary to my happiness."

"You are a little carried away," he said, soothingly. "You are not quite yourself with all the excitement of success. Tomorrow, perhaps—"

"No, now!" she said tensely, her hands on his breast. "You are more necessary to my happiness than I ever believed any man ever could be."

"Ah—but that was then, and this is now," she murmured.

OGDENSBURG GETS PUBLIC MARKET

First City to Benefit Under Farm and Market Law by Getting State Aid for Its Construction.

As the result of an investigation conducted by Commissioner Eugene H. Porter of the Foods and Markets Division of the Department of Farms and Markets, and a recommendation made by him to the Council of Farms and Markets, and subsequently endorsed by the council, the city of Ogdensburg gains the distinction of being the first municipality in the state to receive state aid in the construction of a public market. The bill granting aid to the city of Ogdensburg, which has been signed by Governor Whitman, carries an appropriation of $35,954 for this purpose—almost half the total cost of the market.

The Farms and Markets Law, as amended by Chapter 812, Laws of 1917, provides for the granting to cities of state aid for the construction of public markets. Cities desiring such aid must first establish a department of farms and markets and apply to the Council of Farms and Markets by petition. The council must thereupon cause an investigation to be made, the proposed site to be inspected, and the plans and specifications to be examined. After such investigation the council determines the necessity for the acquisition of lands and the construction of the market and issues a certificate of its approval of the plans therefor.

The city of Ogdensburg first obtained a site, then established an open market and a short time ago applied for state aid. Following this procedure, Commissioner Porter went to Ogdensburg in response to a petition from the city officials, and reaching the conclusion that the proposed market should be built on the site selected, he so reported to the Council of Farms and Markets and recommended to the council that the city's appeal be endorsed. Formal action of this character was taken, and a bill was introduced into the legislature during the closing days of the session. With the endorsement of Commissioner Porter and the council, the bill was passed both in the senate and in the assembly, and has now become law by the action of Governor Whitman.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 10, 1918.

ALLIES TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Twenty years ago, on May 1, 1898, Admiral Dewey fought the battle of Manila Bay, our first victory of the Spanish-American war. The anniversary calls to mind some bits of history that are more interesting just now than even the sinking of all the Spanish ships in the chief port of the Philippines. Of especial interest is the fact that England was on our side—diplomatically—in that war and that Germany found reason from to favor Spain. There is no telling just might have resulted from a manifest desire to interfere on the part of the officious, on-looking German admiral, von Diederichs, but for the firmness, pluck and go-to-blazes manner of Admiral Dewey. It was generally believed during and after that war that Germany would in all probability have attempted to prevent our acquisition to the Philippines but for England's announced attitude. In consequence there was said and written on both sides of the Atlantic about "hands across the sea" and the "rapprochement" between Great Britain and the United States.

Many of those whose memory reaches back twenty years will recall the satirical poem at the expense of the Kaiser, "Me undt Gott," which, being publicly recited by Captain Cockburn of the American navy, caused irritation at Potsdam and a diplomatic "conversation" between Berlin and Washington. The Huns of that period had no real friendship for Spain, being then as now supremely selfish. They resented our acquisition of the Philippines because they wanted the islands themselves as a small part of the earth's surface which they were already scheming to appropriate. But American pluck backed by British friendship—with the possible employment of the British navy to follow—caused them to hesitate and bide their time.

FRIENDS OF A CENTURY.

Toward the end of his meteoric career the great Napoleon is said to have remarked that the British seldom won a battle "except the last one." Doubtless he was thinking not merely of Waterloo but also of other successful efforts of the persistent English to block his path. One of these latter so intimately concerned the fortunes of the United States that it is well worth recalling. Long before Waterloo, as far back as 1800, scheming to establish a great French province in America, Napoleon wrested from Spain our vast middle western region from the Mississippi to the Rockies and from Canada to the Rio Grande, calling it Louisiana. He then prepared, in 1803, to send a great army to the region with a view to the conquest of the young American republic on the east. Thereupon President Thomas Jefferson, ignoring the fact that our war against a German king of England had ended within but twenty years, conferred through our Minister at London with Premier Addington and received assurance that in case of war Great Britain would seize and hold New Orleans "for the United States."

Then President Jefferson promptly threatened Napoleon with the British fleet, saying in his dispatch to Minister Livingston at Paris: "The day that France takes possession of New Orleans we must marry ourselves to the British fleet and nation." The Monroe Doctrine was as yet undreamed of, but in this dispatch Jefferson announced the determination of "holding the two continents of America in sequestration for the common purposes of the united British and American nations," and, as a means of avoiding war with these "united nations," our Minister was instructed to invite Napoleon to sell his Louisiana. This, after consideration, the great autocrat and conqueror of that period agreed to do, selling the vast region then called Louisiana to the United States for $12,000,000—a trading amount from our present point of view but a vast sum in those days.

Why did the great conqueror give up his over-seas scheme and wind up the matter in this fashion? An explanatory document still exists which quotes him as follows: "It is certainly worth while to sell when you can what you are certain to lose. Our land forces have fought and will fight victoriously against all Europe; but as to the sea, there we have to lower our flag. The English navy is and long will be too dominant; we shall not equal it." Though Great Britain was still serving mankind by fighting the Napoleonic world-menace in 1812, the Americans of that year had a just grievance when they declared war on their protecting friend of 1803. But this should not blind our eyes to the fact that in 1803 England stood with us for the freedom of North America from threatening militant European autocracy, just as she stood with us in 1823 for the Monroe Doctrine protecting the two Americas, in the latter case even suggesting the principle to President Monroe and offering to support it. Under greatly changed conditions we are standing with England in support of a similar principle now.

In her public plea for Liberty Bond buying Mrs. Schumann-Henck cried, "It is for our boys, our wonderful boys!" This great singer and noble mother, though born and even brought up in Germany, has three sons in the American navy and one in the trenches. Her Americanism puts to shame the attitude of many persons of Teutonic extraction much longer citizens of and far deeply indebted to this land of liberty.

Once more home addresses are published in the casualty lists, and it is well. This not only prevents confusion due to duplication of names before the government's private notification has reached bereaved families, but it is useful to the general public to see how widely the losses are distributed through the states and thus how all sections are bearing a share of this heaviest of war's burdens.

In England, where almost every family has lost a member in the war, there is no visible sign of bereavement both because of the depressing effect on the public and of the desire not to advertise a private grief. But there is something to be said in favor of a proposed gold star officially granted not as a sign of mourning but as a badge of honor.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

The Girl—"My father says there is a movement on foot." The Youth (with visible alarm)—"I think I better go."—Baltimore American.

"Don't you think Bikins was rude to excuse himself immediately after our dinner?" "Possibly; but he had an engagement to eat another one fifteen minutes later."—Life.

"When do you expect to arrive at your destination?" "Haven't thought of that. When I travel now I simply get on board a train and see what happens."—Washington Star.

"I have read that the most dangerous thing a girl can do is to throw her arms around a man in case the boat upsets." "Uh," said the man. "Perhaps so. This boat is perfectly safe, however."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

No Help There.
The school teacher had punished Tommy so often for talking during school, and the punishments had been apparently without effect, that as a last resort, she decided to notify Tommy's father of his son's fault. So, following the department mark on his next report were these words: "Tommy talks a great deal."

In due time the report was returned with his father's signature, and under it was written: "You ought to hear his mother."—Exchange.

Wants Mulligan's Room.

A little Irishman in a state of great excitement and deshabille ran into the lobby of the hotel.

"I want a room," he said to the clerk, "and I want it quick."

"What room do you want?" inquired the clerk, politely.

"But 37 is already occupied—Mulligan has that room."

"I know he has," responded the little Irishman. "I'm Mulligan, and I just fell out of the window."—Photo Bits.

No Wonder.

A train parted in the middle and the communication cord snapped also, the end of it striking an old lady on the bonnet. "What is the matter," she exclaimed.

"Oh, the train has broken in two," replied a gentleman who sat in the next seat.

"I should say so," responded the old lady, looking at the broken cord. "Did they suppose a thin bit of string like that would hold the train together?"—Exchange.

WHEN CLEARWATER MET HINDENBERG

Former Senator W. J. Tully, director of the W. S. S. in New York state; Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., Judge A. T. Clearwater, Postmaster William C. DeWitt and Superintendent of Schools Myron J. Michael were the speakers at the patriotic rally held at the high school Thursday evening in the interests of the sale of the thrift stamps. Postmaster DeWitt presided and introduced the speakers. The stage was decorated with American flags and patriotic posters. The meeting was well attended and an enthusiastic one.

Former Senator Tully gave a brief outline of the various campaigns to boost the sale of the war saving certificates and thrift stamps, and pointed out that buying these was not only helping the government but was also a splendid financial investment. The stamps and certificates are not meant to take the place of the Liberty Bonds; both are good investments and everyone should buy as many of the stamps and bonds as they can afford.

He emphasized the fact that if we are to win the war we must support

every Liberty Loan, buy all of the thrift stamps we can, and support the government in every possible way in its loan issues. He said that churches, schools and insurance companies ought to co-operate in the sale of the thrift stamps. The churches have a splendid opportunity to eliminate their debt by creating a fund out of these stamps which would be purchased by patriotic members. One life insurance company had taken thirty-five million dollars worth of the thrift stamps and guaranteed to sell all of them through their agents. Banks should co-operate in every possible way. He had been told that the bank deposits in Kingston amount to $17,000,000, which was a record to be proud of. Speaking of the war, he stated that the real crisis has come and that there will be no peace until German militarism has been crushed and anarchy wiped out.

Mayor Canfield Speaks.

Mayor Canfield, before speaking in serious vein, told several good stories, which were received with laughter and applause. He made a plea for those at home to co-operate with the boys "over there" who are fighting for us. The mayor emphasized the fact that one of the best methods of co-operation is buying the thrift stamps and Liberty Bonds. He quoted the words often used by Benjamin Franklin and used by others centuries before, "For the loss of a nail a shoe was lost, for the loss of a shoe a rider was lost; for the loss of a rider a battle was lost; for the loss of a battle a kingdom was lost—all for the loss of a nail."

Address of Supt. Michael.

Superintendent Michael gave an interest account of what the school children are doing along the lines of buying thrift stamps and Liberty Bonds. In the high school 231 pupils hold war saving certificates; 180 hold Liberty Bonds. Therefore the percentage of high school students who are patriotic creditors of the government is 83.3 per cent. Figures showing the pupils of the grade schools in purchasing war stamps are as follows:

School 1, 20 purchasers	$65.50
School 2, 153 purchasers	$80.00
School 3, 123 purchasers	$325.76
School 4, 25 purchasers	$42.25
School 5, 115 purchasers	$205.91
School 6, 126 purchasers	$430.00
School 7, 133 purchasers	$863.75
School 8, 97 purchasers	$355.00
792 pupils in the grade schools	had invested in war savings stamps $2,698.17.

Children Bond Holders.

There are in No. 2 school, he said, 25 "bond holders," children who own a total of $1,500 in Liberty bonds.

In No. 3, 4 have invested $450. No. 4, 9 invested $450. No. 5, 22 invested $1,100. No. 6, 40 invested $3,300. No. 7, 52 invested $4,600. No. 8, 63 invested $3,650.

Judge Clearwater's Remarks.

Judge Clearwater said that we could not all buy Liberty Bonds, but there were few of us who could not in some manner contribute to the winning of the war, and the war thrift and savings stamp scheme had been devised by the government as a measure which will enable practically every citizen who earns anything to assist to that end. Not only is it a patriotic act to buy these stamps, but it was an investment which has behind it the distinct guarantee of the government that it will increase in value, and therefore the small investor not only is sure of a return of his money, but will in fact receive a large proportionate return than the investor in Liberty Bonds. It is not so much the amount which a man or woman invests, as it is the spirit of willingness to assist the government in this tragic and catalytic emergency. His audience should remember the Biblical story of the widow's mite, whose contribution was of immortal fame because of the spirit which prompted it, while the contributions of the wealthy Pharisees, Scribes and Sadducees of her day were forgotten within a week after they were made. The judge said that it was appalling to the people of the United States as a whole do not as yet comprehend the gravity of the military and economic situation. Many of them think because they have been put to a trifling inconvenience is not being able to eat wheat bread or satiate themselves with sugary sweets, they are fighting the war for the Allies. It is undeniable that this attitude is entirely due to the utter lack of comprehension and preparation upon the part of the American people for this conflict, notwithstanding the repeated warnings which for many years had been given that it was impending.

When He Met Hindenberg.

He alluded to a visit he had made to the Fortress at Mayence in Germany thirty years ago, at which time General Von Hindenberg was at the head of the German War College, and in command of the fortress. The judge had gone there to see the Eiglestein, the cairn of stones erected by the soldiers of the Second and Ninth Roman Legions in memory of the younger Drusus, who was killed by a fall from his horse at that place at the time of Caesar's invasion of Helvetia. He found Von Hindenberg and his officers studying the maps of the fortresses of Paris. Upon the judge remarking that they were fighting over their old battles, Von Hindenberg replied no, it was not the fortresses which the Germans had destroyed in 1870, they were studying, but the new fortresses which the French had erected.

It was at this time he said that General Boulanger was prancing around Paris on his black charger, and talking of the "grand revanche," and Von Hindenberg said that it was not at all improbable that the Germans would have to repeat the conquest of 1870, and demolish the new fortifications.

HUNTER STREET WOMEN INJURED

Thursday morning while Mrs. Robert Buchholz, of No. 80 Hunter street, was walking down the Hunter street hill she stubbed her toe and fell to the sidewalk. She sustained a broken nose and was cut about the face.

That afternoon Mrs. Roger Peters, of No. 50 Hunter street, slipped and fell down a flight of stairs at her home. Fortunately she escaped with a severe shaking up. She was bruised, however, about the arm and side, but no bones were broken.

Truth Not in Them Then.

"Will you give me some advice?" asked the youthful candidate. "Why, certainly, my boy," answered the veteran campaigner. "The first thing for you to learn is that you can't feed the public pulse by listening to what men say just after the drinks and cigars have been passed around."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

SISTERS DISPUTE OVER PROPERTY

In the supreme court this morning the action brought by Dr. James Oliver of High Falls against Mrs. Esther J. Sahler, as administratrix of the estate of the late Frank Y. Sahler, went to the jury at eleven o'clock.

Case 43 was then begun. This is an action brought by Angeline Whitney against her sister, Elizabeth Whitney. On December 13, 1905, the late Elizabeth Whitney, the mother of the plaintiff, made her will, leaving her property in the town of Shandaken, under certain conditions, to the daughters, Angeline and Elizabeth. A provision in the will stated that if either party sought to break the will she would be debarred from any portion of the estate.

Plaintiff claims that defendant has occupied property and has refused to let defendant have part of same, and has sold farm products, has collected rents from part of the property, and has not turned any portion of these receipts over to her.

Defendant claims that plaintiff brought a partition action which was an indirect attempt to break the will, and therefore because of this, by the provisions of the will the plaintiff is debarred from any share of the property.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

City Hall Janitor Richard Dawe as applied for a vacuum cleaner to be used in the building, and his request has been referred to the supply committee of the city fathers. The vacuum cleaner will be used to clean the rug on the council chamber floor.

Officer Rail, the silent cop on duty at the corner of Broadway and Railroad avenue, is in the hospital for repairs. He was struck by an auto on Thursday. The auto owner settled the hospital bill.

A complaint has been made to police headquarters of cows running wild in North Rondout, and damaging the war gardens there. If the wild cows are not kept within bounds they are likely to prove expensive for their owners.

It was reported to the water board today that the fire hydrant on North street was broken and leaking. It seems a shame to waste the water in one spot when it is needed on the other streets of the city, especially when the wind blows.

The street oil has not arrived yet but is expected any day. In the meantime many residents would not object to seeing the water wagon pass the house, for while the city went wet the streets are mighty dry and dusty.

There were no arrests made during the night by the police department.

Alderman Preston of the First ward is of the opinion that the police department should get busy and station either one or two cops at the Broadway railroad crossing. The alderman does not favor the silent kind for that duty. He again called the attention of the other city fathers to the matter at the last session.

The police department at the present time can not spare any of the regulars for the duty outlined by Alderman Preston as they are short-handed now. The officer on duty in that section acts as traffic officer when he finds time, however.

Next Friday evening those who would like to join the regulars—in this case the police force—will meet at the city hall to take the examination, both mental and physical, as prepared by the local civil service board.

THEN AND NOW

By IMES MACDONALD.

Seven times in the last three weeks it had happened. Once it was a glove, once a scarf, twice a handkerchief. Seven times in all Laurens had returned late to his apartment to discover the air shaded with that indelible perfume and some article of feminine apparel carelessly flung on his table. And always, from the slim vase on his mantel, there drooped a fresh rose.

He, Eduard Laurens, was buried up to his eyes in a mystery—a bewildering, opalescent, violet-scented mystery that was sprinkled with rose leaves and romance. He laughed softly, as he touched the knob of his door and reached for his keys, when suddenly the knob turned in his hand, the door was drawn slowly open and he stood face to face with a strange young woman.

For a moment he thought he had made a mistake.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I thought this was Laurens' apartment."

"It is," she smiled slightly, gathering herself in hand. "I am Mrs. Laurens."

"I didn't know there was a Mrs. Laurens, but I've been out of town for some time. My name's Barton," lied Laurens.

In an hour he returned and she was gone, but pinned to the curtain that shut off his music room was a note:

"I came once too often. Your friend, Mr. Barton, called and caught me as I was leaving. I beg of you to forgive me if any complications should arise from the awful fib I told him. It was the wonderful melodies of your new opera that first drew me down from the apartment above. I must caution you to have the latch fixed on the window on the fire escape. Under the circumstances I'm leaving the apartment upstairs tonight. This, of course, is good-by—and I'm sorry."

The next morning he was somewhat surprised to open his uptown studio door to an elderly man whom he remembered to have met at some time or other, but could not place.

"I hate to presume," said the old gentleman, "and I hate to ask favors, Mr. Laurens, but I've a niece who has studied abroad for three years. She thinks she can sing. I do not know, perhaps she can. She has heard of your new opera, and wants to be given a chance at a small singing part."

"Why," said Laurens, cordially, "I'd be very glad to give her voice a try-out. Bring her up tomorrow at three, if it is convenient."

And so the next day at three they came, and Laurens was astounded, for it was none other than the girl who claimed to be Mrs. Laurens.

"I was sure you could sing," he interrupted. "Is there anything in particular you would like to try?"

"The opening song of—of—'Riane,'" she said, hesitatingly.

She dropped down on the bench beside him. "I—I stole the score from your apartment. That is—I copied as much of it as I could—and I've been working—working like mad on it. You were so—so nice to—to pretend that you were not you, the other night. It was very considerate."

In an instant she felt the strong grasp of sensitive hands on her own, and she looked into his fine eyes and marveled.

"But you—you musn't misunderstand," she went on. "The roses—and things were a tribute to your genius, to the soul of your music, not a token to you as a man. Please understand that," she finished gently.

"Of course," he said in an absent detached way of his. And he turned to the piano and burst forth into the brilliant prelude of his opera. Then he swung abruptly into the melodies of the first number—and she sang.

He controlled his voice with an effort. "Katz must hear you tomorrow," he said. "He'll be crazy. Now try this!" And he broke into the "Passion Song" of the third act.

The flexibility of her voice was marvelous. It was so much part of her that unconsciously she acted as she sang. She couldn't help it. As she began the second song, a stocky, grizzled little man stood just within the door listening intently while she poured out the pent-up love of all the ages.

"What do you think of her, Katz?" he chuckled.

"You ask me I think of such a voice! Laurens, I go mad to find as a 'Riane'—"

—that she is here!"

Six months later Laurens stood in the star's dressing room face to face with Riane.

"Well," he said softly, "are you satisfied?"

"No!" she said, in spite of the flush of victory on her cheeks. "I find that something besides success is necessary to my happiness."

"You are a little carried away," he said, soothingly. "You are not quite yourself with all the excitement of success. Tomorrow, perhaps—"

"No, now!" she said tensely, her hands on her breast. "You are more necessary to my happiness than I ever believed any man ever could be."

"Ah—but that was then, and this is now," she murmured.

Don't Let BUGS Eat Up Your Garden

Of course, you will catch the big ones, but the little fellows! Look out for them. They are really quite as dangerous. Aphids, a little green bug, not much larger than a pin head, once it gets a start, will destroy a garden. It sucks the juices of the plants, stunts their growth and lowers both yield and quality. Spray peas, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, onions, cucumbers and other vegetables and flowers with Black Leaf 40.

Kills Aphids, Thrips, Leaf Hopper and other soft-bodied, sap-sucking insects on trees, shrubs, flowers, vines and vegetables. Black Leaf 40 is highly concentrated. A little goes a long way. Manufactured by The Kentucky Tobacco Product Co., Incorporated, Louisville, Kentucky. We can supply you with one ounce for small vegetable and flower gardens up to 10-pound containers for large orchards. Recommended by Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

Mind Still a Puzzle.

Science hopes that in time it may discover the method whereby the billions of brain cells operate in making up the thinking creatures we are. It would know why the large mind is not always the large brain; why we reach our everyday conclusions in the diversified affairs; why we act, plot, scheme; why, as Professor Scott asserts, the brain can stand the strain of persistent work better than the muscles of the body.

Many Religions in World.

Religions are of more numerous kinds than can well be classified. At the present time it is estimated there are throughout the world about 500,000,000 Christians, 170,000,000 Roman Catholics and 170,000,000 Protestants; nearly 400,000,000 Confucians and Taoists; 210,000,000 followers of Hinduism; 220,000,000 Mohammedans; 140,000,000 Buddhists and 12,000,000 members of the Jewish faith.

DISTRIBUTION OF SUGAR TO CANNERS

It Will Be Systematized This Year And Be Under the Federal Food Administration's Control.

Distribution of sugar to meet this summer's canning demands will be under a modified certificate system. In order to make sure that home canners may obtain sufficient sugar to preserve perishable fruits and at the same time to place a check upon those who would endeavor to obtain unreasonable quantities for household consumption. The check on consumption will be exercised through the retailers—considered a much more satisfactory method than the card system adopted in other countries—chiefly to guard against temporary shortages that may occur if more vessels are diverted from the Cuban trade, and at the same time to assure a supply adequate to meet the extensive demand hoped for from home canners.

Retail dealers in all states will be provided by their federal food administration with certificates which must be signed by the consumers before they obtain the amount of sugar needed for home canning. Each certificate has blank spaces for the name of the dealer, the signature and address of the consumer, and the amount needed for canning and preserving purposes only. The certificate must be returned within one week after it is signed to the federal food administrator for the state in which the purchase is made.

In order to build up reserve stocks to take care of the canning demand jobbers are now permitted to hold sugar sufficient to meet their needs for 60 instead of 30 days. Where necessity demands federal food administrators will have authority to allow the sale of more than 1,000 pounds—the present limit—to retailers. The prescribed limits of retail sales for other than canning purposes will still be maintained—not over 5 pounds to people living in cities; not more than 10 pounds to those living in the country.

Commercial canners in every state will be allowed to increase immediate purchases and gradually to accumulate sufficient sugar to meet full requirements of their 1918 canning operations. The new regulation which permits canners to carry a season's supply does not, however, extend the latitude to manufacturers of less essential foodstuffs.

The Men Who Can Help.

Each town, under the leadership of its most active spirits, such as its chamber of commerce or county council of defense, itself should immediately make a survey of all able-bodied men who have had farm experience and obtain pledges to spend a day or two out of each week or a week, if need be, out of the month at the periods of greatest demand, in order to help the farmers. There are many men working in the towns whose places can be taken by the women. I have in mind particularly men waiters, elevator boys, and clerks whose work can be well substituted, if the business sentiment of the town will act resolutely and persuade employers to use women temporarily in order that the men may be released for farm labor as the occasion may require.—Clarence Ousley, assistant secretary of agriculture.

Varied Breeds of Swans.

There are three kinds of swans—the white, which in various varieties circles the northern hemisphere, the black, which upset current notions when it was discovered in Australia, and the more recent and most remarkable of all, the white swan with a black neck, which is found in Chili and which breeds in the Antarctic.

CARING FOR SEED POTATOES NOW

Good seed is an important factor in potato production. Potatoes which have grown long sprouts have lost a part of their vitality and can never produce as good a crop as potatoes which have not sprouted before planting. No one would think of pasturing corn after it was up and thus compelling the plant to grow another stalk, yet most potatoes have grown one set of sprouts before they are put in the ground. Where a cellar is cool enough to keep potatoes from sprouting, the seed need not be disturbed until the time of planting. Unfortunately few cellars can be depended upon and it is necessary to remove the potatoes.

Potatoes should be taken at once from the cellar and spread out on the barn floor or some other light, dry place. Here the seed will remain hard and few sprouts will grow, leaving the strength of the potato to put forth good, healthy sprouts after planting.

It has been the custom at the State Agricultural School farm to "green" the potatoes. Two weeks before planting time the seed is placed on the lawn in the sun. Short stubbed green sprouts are produced. These do not break off when planted by hand, and make a much earlier rugged top. This plan is especially recommended for the garden where early potatoes are desired.

ARDONIA.

Ardonia, May 10.—The food conservation meeting held in the school house May 4 was attended by about thirty-five mothers and housewives. The meeting began by an entertainment by the pupils of the school, which had been planned by their teacher for this occasion. Two of the older boys were dressed in farmer costumes and marched in the school room with their "crops" (children dressed to represent the various food products). After they had taken their places they gave a most interesting dialogue showing the substitutes that may be used to save wheat, sugar, etc. Several solos were rendered, the enjoyable of these being sung by children of the first and second grades. At the close of the entertainment to the tune of "Pack Up Your Troubles" the children left the room, those representing the exports we send to France going one way and the substitutes going another. After this Lillian M. Stuart gave a lecture on food illustrated by stereoscopic slides. This was very interesting and beneficial to all. Leaflets containing many useful and economical recipes were distributed, after which coffee and sandwiches were served by the Mothers' Club. At the close of the entertainment Miss Malcolm was presented with a beautiful birthday gift by the Mothers' Club. This they did partly show their appreciation to her for the splendid teaching she is giving their children. It is very easy for one to see how much good work is being done by simply stepping inside the school building, aside from the fact that she has won the love and respect of the children who attend her school and we hope the Mothers' Club will continue to give her these tokens of appreciation for her services.

SHADY.

Shady, May 9.—The girls of Camp Fire "Hone-Loy" of Shady, take little time to breath this spring. May 3rd they gave a successful entertainment for the benefit of their adopted French orphan and of our boys over there.

May 18th, at 8 p. m., Miss Stuart, home demonstration agent for Ulster county will give an illustrated lecture on food conservation. The program will include a play, "Home Guard," several patriotic songs produced during the war and other interesting items. All are urged to come. No admission fee; light refreshments will be for sale.

No Nutrimint in Bouillon.

Bouillon has no more nourishing qualities than hot salt water. All the nutrient is still in the meat from which the broth was made. The bouillon is a stimulant, that is all. There is no more horrible waste than to throw away a piece of meat from which broth has been made.

Rub Youngsters' Cold Away With "Outside" Vapor Treatment

Local Druggists Have Imported the Invention of a North Carolina Druggist That Relieves Croup and Cold Troubles by External Application.

You Can Try a 25c Jar on 30 Days' Trial and Your Druggist Will Refund the Purchase Price if You Are Not Delighted With the Test.

Every mother breathes a sigh of relief when she first tries the North Carolina treatment, Vick's VapoRub, and finds that it is no longer necessary to "dose" the children with nauseous medicines for croup or cold troubles. VapoRub comes in salve form and when applied over the throat and chest the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, all night long, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs. At the same time VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin taking out that tightness and soreness in the chest.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICE..... 25c, 50c, $1.00

VapoRub has a hundred uses in the home—for deep chest colds, sore throat, bronchitis or incipient pneumonia just apply well over the throat and chest and cover with a warm, flannel cloth. For head colds, hay fever, asthma or catarrhal troubles VapoRub can either be applied up the nostrils or a little melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled. Croup is usually relieved within fifteen minutes and an application at bedtime prevents a night attack.

All mothers are urged to take advantage of the 30-day trial offer now being made by the local druggist and see for themselves just what VapoRub will do.—Advertisement.

ALLIANCE TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Twenty years ago, on May 1, 1898, Admiral Dewey fought the battle of Manila Bay, our first victory of the Spanish-American war. The anniversary calls to mind some bits of history that are more interesting just now than even the sinking of all the Spanish ships in the chief port of the Philippines. Of especial interest is the fact that England was on our side—diplomatically—in that war and that Germany found reason from to favor Spain. There is no telling just might have resulted from a man's desire to interfere on the part of the offensive, on-looking German admiral, von Dredrichs, but for the firmness, pluck and go-to-blazes manner of Admiral Dewey. It was generally believed during and after that war that Germany would in all probability have attempted to prevent our acquisition to the Philippines but for England's announced attitude. In consequence there was said and written on both sides of the Atlantic about "hands across the sea" and the "rapprochement" between Great Britain and the United States. Many of those whose memory reaches back twenty years will recall the satirical poem at the expense of the Kaiser, "Mein Gott, Gott," which, being publicly recited by Captain Coghlan of the American navy, caused irritation at Potsdam and a diplomatic "conversation" between Berlin and Washington. The Huns of that period had no real friendship for Spain, being then as now supremely selfish. They resented our acquisition of the Philippines because they wanted the islands themselves as a small part of the earth's surface which they were already scheming to appropriate. But American pluck backed by British friendship—with the possible employment of the British navy to follow—caused them to hesitate and hold their tongue.

FIENDS OF A CENTURY.

Toward the end of his meteoric career the great Napoleon is said to have remarked that the British seldom won a battle "except the last one." Doubtless he was thinking not merely of Waterloo but also of other victories of the persistent British to blot his path. One of these latter so intimately concerned the fortunes of the United States that it is well worth recalling. Long before Waterloo, as far back as 1800, scheming to establish a great French province in America, Napoleon wanted from Spain our vast middle-western region from the Mississippi to the Rockies and from Canada to the Rio Grande calling it Louisiana. He then prepared in 1803, to send a great army to the region with a view to the conquest of the young American republic on the east. Thereupon President Thomas Jefferson, ignoring the fact that our war against a German king of England had ended within but twenty years, conferred through our Minister at London with Premier Addington and received assurance that in case of war Great Britain would seize and hold New Orleans "for the United States."

Then President Jefferson promptly threatened Napoleon with the British fleet, saying in his dispatch to Minister Livingston at Paris: "The day that France takes possession of New Orleans we must marry ourselves to the British fleet and nation." The Monroe Doctrine was as yet undreamed of, but in this dispatch Jefferson announced the determination of "holding the two continents of America in sequestration for the common purposes of the united British and American nations," and as a means of avoiding war with these "united nations," our Minister was instructed to invite Napoleon to sell his Louisiana. This, after consideration, the great autocrat and conqueror of that period agreed to do, selling the vast region then called Louisiana to the United States for $12,000,000—a trifling amount from our present point of view but a vast sum in those days. Why did the great conqueror give up his overseas scheme and wind up the matter in this fashion? An explanatory document still exists which quotes him as follows: "It is certainly worth while to sell when you can what you are certain to lose. Our land forces have fought and will fight victoriously against all Europe; but as to the sea, there we have to lower our flag. The English navy is and long will be too dominant; we shall not equal it." Though Great Britain was still serving mankind by fighting the Napoleonic world-measure in 1812, the Americans of that year had a just grievance when they declared war on their protecting friend of 1803. But this should not blind our eyes to the fact that in 1803 England stood with us for the freedom of North America from threatening militant European autocracy, just as she stood with us in 1823 for the Monroe Doctrine protecting the two Americas, in the latter case even suggesting the principle to President Monroe and offering to support it. Under greatly changed conditions we are standing with England in support of a similar principle now.

In her public plea for Liberty Bond buying Mrs. Schumann-Heink cried, "It is for our boys, our wonderful boys!" This great singer and noble mother, though born and even brought up in Germany, has three sons in the American navy and one in the trenches. Her Americanism puts to shame the attitude of many persons of Teutonic extraction much longer citizens of and far deeply indebted to this land of liberty.

Once more home addresses are published in the casualty lists, and it is well. This not only prevents confusion due to duplication of names before the government's private notification has reached bereaved families, but it is useful to the general public to see how widely the losses are distributed through the states and thus how all sections are bearing a share of this heaviest of war's burdens.

In England, where almost every family has lost a member in the war, there is no visible sign of bereavement both because of the depressing effect on the public and of the desire not to advertise a private grief. But there is something to be said in favor of a proposed gold star officially granted not as a sign of mourning but as a badge of honor.

No Help There.

The school teacher had punished Tommy for talking during class, and the punishment had been apparently without effect, that as a last resort, she decided to notify Tommy's father of his son's fault. So, following the department mark on his next report were these words: "Tommy talks a great deal."

In due time the report was returned with his father's signature, and under it was written:

"You ought to hear his mother."

Wants Mulligan's Room.

A little Irishman in a state of great excitement and de-hillie ran into the lobby of the hotel. "I want a room," he said to the clerk. "I want a room," he said to the clerk. "What room do you want?" inquired the clerk, politely. "But 37 is already occupied," Mulligan has that room."

"I know he has," responded the little Irishman. "I'm Mulligan, and I just fell out of the window."

Photo Bits.

No Wonder.

A train parted in the middle and the communication cord snapped also, the end of it striking an old lady on the bonnet. "What is the matter?" she exclaimed. "Oh, the train has broken in two," replied a gentleman who sat in the next seat.

"I should say so," responded the old lady, looking at the broken cord. "Did that suppose a thin bit of string like that would hold the train together?"—Exchange.

Information Wanted.

"Ma," roared Mr. Jagoby, "where in the de-mition bow-bows is my hat? I can't keep a thing about this house. It's a shame the way things disappear without any apparent reason. I would just like to know where that hat is."

"So would I," replied Mrs. Jagoby, coldly. "You didn't have it on when you came home last night."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

COST DETERMINES PRICE ON RE-SALE

Decision in Resale Price Fixing Case
Establishes Policy to Be Followed
By Federal Trade Commission.

For a considerable time there has been a controversy throughout the country over the question of the right of manufacturers, wholesalers, etc., fixing resale prices at which articles could be sold, and the right to maintain such resale prices has been contended for by them, and the question whether such right exists has been brought before the Federal Trade Commission numerous times. Many hearings have been had, and much consideration has been given to the subject by that commission. Many business concerns have been refusing to sell to customers who would not agree to maintain the resale price fixed by the seller.

The Federal Trade Commission has just disposed of the first of these cases in which complaints have been issued charging violations of law through fixing the resale price of articles and an order to cease and desist from this practice has just been issued by it in the case of Chester Kent & Company, Inc. of Boston, manufacturers of proprietary medicines.

The order forbids the company to

(a) Indicate to dealers the prices for which its proprietary or patent medicines shall be resold.

(b) Securing agreements from dealers to adhere to such prices.

(c) Refusing to sell to dealers who fail to adhere to such prices.

(d) Refusing to sell to dealers who fail to adhere to such prices upon the same terms as dealers who do so adhere.

(e) Furnishing any advantage to dealers who adhere to the resale prices while refusing similar treatment to dealers who do not adhere to the prices.

This order of the commission follows the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the American Graphophone Company case lately decided by it.

After full consideration the Federal Trade Commission has decided to issue complaints against all business concerns who refuse to sell unless the purchaser will agree to maintain a resale price fixed by the seller. The case just decided is the first formal finding by the commission to that effect.

When once an article has passed from the maker to a purchaser, he owns it, and the owner of such article may sell it at any price that he chooses provided he does not himself sell it at such price as to be below cost, and thus thereby enter into unfair competition with other retailers selling the same article.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Saturday.
Breakfast—Spiced apple sauce, cornmeal mush with top milk, fish cakes, coffee made with milk.

Lunch or Supper—Cheese soup, hashed brown potatoes, buckwheat broad, forcemeat and celery salad.

Dinner—Baked eggs with pimento, macaroni, macedoine of vegetables, lemon pie (potato and cornmeal pastry).

*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

Americans have not the cheese eating habit. European countries are way ahead of us in their appreciation of this cheap and satisfying food. There is a surplus of cheese in storage in the country and the American housewife, limited in many of the things she is accustomed to use, should take advantage of this abundance. The small boy's terse and pungent "cheese it" should be seriously incorporated into the family emergency program.

Cheese Soup.

1 cup thin white sauce, 3 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon onion juice, 2 tablespoons parsley, salt, pepper.

Add the cheese and seasoning to the hot white sauce. Just before serving add the well beaten yolk of egg and parsley, finely minced.

Baked Eggs With Pimento Potatoes.

2 cups rice potatoes, 1/2 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons chopped pimento, 4 eggs.

Mix the potatoes, butter, milk, salt and pimento together. Arrange in a greased baking dish; make four or more indentations and into each break an egg. Dust with salt and pepper, sprinkle with crumbs and bake until the eggs are set, or longer, if desired, until the eggs are cooked hard.

Potato and Cornmeal Pastry.

1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup cold mashed potato, 1-3 cup fat, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder.

Sift the cornmeal into the boiling water and cook it for 10 minutes. Cool and add the other ingredients. Allow the mixture to stand for at least an hour before rolling it out, in order that it may be more easily handled. It may be mixed the date before it is used. This pastry is good for pies in which the crust is baked first, such as lemon or chocolate pie. It is somewhat difficult to handle.

Recipes for many of the dishes in these menus, which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

ENTHUSIASM IN PERU OVER BASEBALL GAME

Well-Organized Teams in the Field at Callao and Lima.

Large Crowd Witnesses Contest Between Team From Battleship Marblehead and Players Picked From Local Clubs.

Enthusiasm in Peru over the American game of baseball, which has for years been at a high pitch, was according to advices from Callao by John J. Doyle, president of the American Sports Publishing company, fanned to a bright flame by the arrival at that port of the U. S. S. Marblehead recently. While the primary object of those on the warship was to pay the respects of the American government to the Peruvian nation for the action by the latter in breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany, an important feature of the visit was a game of baseball between the Marblehead's team and a line of players picked from several local clubs.

The game was a pronounced success in the matter of attendance, the crowd being the largest that ever attended a similar entertainment, and while the sailor team won handily the good play by the contestants was heartily enjoyed.

Callao has three well-organized teams, the Callao B. C., the Club Sportivo Fry and the Callao High School Athletic association. Lima, which is only twenty minutes distant by electric road, has one club named the Ciclista Lima, and there has been an interchange of games. The Callao B. C., which is the strongest in Peru, has played a total of 15 games during the past season, winning 12 of them.

The Lima council in order to encourage the sport put up a fine championship cup, and this was captured by the Callao B. C., after a spirited competition. The improvement in the work of the various teams in Peru is shown by the close scores, while previously the figures ran up as high as 15 and 20 runs per game.

The high status of baseball in Peru, according to the report, is due to the intelligent and untiring efforts of Milton M. Longshore, principal of the Callao high school; A. O. Molino and Oscar Medeiros of the Callao B. C. and O. Delaude, pitcher and manager of the Ciclista Lima.

PITCHER TYLER IS CLEVER AS BASEMAN

Many Chicago fans have wondered whether Manager Fred Mitchell of the Cubs was in earnest when he said he would use Pitcher Tyler as substitute first baseman this season. It strikes them on the funny bone to hear of a twirler occupying the infield during important championship games. Mitchell says he is very much in earnest. He has seen Tyler practice in that position and knows he fields the place with speed and accuracy. He also knows that Tyler is far from being a weak hitter.

SCHALK ON BASEBALL BRAINS

Player Does Not Necessarily Need Schoolroom Education—Case of Ty Cobb is Cited.

"A man does not necessarily need a schoolroom education to have what we refer to as 'baseball brains,'" says Ray Schalk, leading backstop of the American league.

"I admit this is the day of the college player in baseball," adds Schalk, "and the better education a man has, all other things being equal, the better player he should be. But he might know a lot of Greek, literature, wave motion, phonology, analytical geometry, metaphysics and similar subjects and still be absolutely a frost on a ball or the hit-and-run."

"Ty Cobb has the ideal baseball brains, but Ty isn't a college man. On the other hand, I used to play in the minors with a graduate of a well-known university who was a brilliant scholar and a good natural athlete. But he was positively the limit in playing baseball. He would do the most incomprehensible things. In fact, he was impossible."

Iguana Valuable Food.
 The black iguana of California, of which the scientific name is Crotaphytus, in allusion to the comblike crest of spines along the back, a scurrying motion, "spicing" it, is allied to the "ring-tailed" iguana, but unlike the Jamaican iguana, its flesh is highly esteemed.

The KITCHEN CABINET

By this leak, I will most horribly revenge. I eat and eat, I swear.—Shakespeare.

A GROUP OF FOOD DISHES.

As we are not all alike fortunately in our tastes, each may find some dish which he likes in the good things constantly being combined.

Tripe Fricassee.
 —Scrape a pound of tripe, cut it in small pieces and cover with cold water. Let it stand for 15 minutes, remove the water and put over fresh water, wash again and cover with cold water, then simmer gently for five hours, add one small onion chopped, after cooking drain off the water and add two cups of milk, a grating of nutmeg, salt and pepper, stir until it boils. Remove from the heat, add a yolk of egg, mix well and serve hot.

Sardine Canapes.—Cut brown bread in circles, spread with butter and heat in the oven. Pound sardines to a paste, add an equal amount of chopped hard cooked eggs, season with lemon juice, and Worcestershire sauce. Spread on rounds of bread, garnish each with the center circle of hard cooked white with the yolk in the center.

By adding potato to our bread we will not only help in conserving the flour but we will produce a product which is both wholesome and palatable. Doughnuts, rolls and biscuits are all improved by the addition of mashed potatoes.

Potato Bread.—Take one-third of a cupful of hot water or milk, add two teaspoonfuls each of salt, sugar and fat, three cupfuls of mashed potato, six cupfuls of flour and a half cupful of yeast or a half cake of compressed yeast and a fourth of a cupful of water. Put the hot water or milk, salt, fat, and sugar in a bowl, add the mashed potatoes to it and mix well, soften the yeast in the water and add it to the potatoes. Add one cupful of flour and knead thoroughly, then the second cupful kneading and stirring, then the remaining cupfuls. This dough will seem very stiff and difficult to knead, but all the flour must be added or the dough will be very soft at the second kneading. Let rise until double its bulk, knead again and shape into loaves. Let rise until double its bulk and bake in a moderate oven for 60 minutes. This will make two loaves.

WHEN CLEARWATER MET HINDENBERG

Former Senator W. J. Tully, director of the W. S. S. in New York state; Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr.; Judge A. T. Clearwater, Postmaster William C. DeWitt and Superintendent of Schools Myron J. Michael were the speakers at the patriotic rally held at the high school Thursday evening in the interests of the sale of the thrift stamps. Postmaster DeWitt presided and introduced the speakers. The stage was decorated with American flags and patriotic posters. The meeting was well attended and an enthusiastic one.

Former Senator Tully gave a brief outline of the various campaigns to boost the sale of the war savings certificates and thrift stamps, and pointed out that buying these was not only helping the government but was also a splendid financial investment. The stamps and certificates are not meant to take the place of the Liberty Bonds; both are good investments and everyone should buy as many of the stamps and bonds as they can afford.

every Liberty Loan, buy all of the thrift stamps we can, and support the government in every possible way in its loan issues. He said that churches, schools and insurance companies ought to co-operate in the sale of the thrift stamps. The churches have a splendid opportunity to eliminate their debt by creating a fund out of these stamps which would be purchased by patriotic members. One life insurance company had taken thirty-five million dollars worth of the thrift stamps and guaranteed to sell all of them through their agents. Banks should co-operate in every possible way. He had been told that the bank deposits in Kingston amount to $17,000,000, which was a record to be proud of. Speaking of the war, he stated that the real crisis has come and that there will be no peace until German militarism has been crushed and anarchy wiped out.

Mayor Canfield Speaks.
Mayor Canfield, before speaking in serious vein, told several good stories, which were received with laughter and applause. He made a plea for those at home to co-operate with the boys "over there" who are fighting for us. The mayor emphasized the fact that one of the best methods of co-operation is buying the thrift stamps and Liberty Bonds. He quoted the words often used by Benjamin Franklin and used by others centuries before, "For the loss of a nail a shoe was lost, for the loss of a shoe a rider was lost, for the loss of a rider a battle was lost, for the loss of a battle a kingdom was lost—all for the loss of a nail."

Address of Supl. Michael.
Superintendent Michael gave an interest account of what the school children are doing along the lines of buying thrift stamps and Liberty Bonds. In the high school 231 pupils hold war saving certificates; 189 hold Liberty Bonds. Therefore the percentage of high school students who are patriotic creditors of the government is 63.8 per cent. Figures showing the pupils of the grade schools in purchasing war stamps are as follows:

School 1, 20 purchasers	$65.50
School 2, 153 purchasers	$30.00
School 3, 123 purchasers	$25.76
School 4, 25 purchasers	$2.25
School 5, 115 purchasers	$205.91
School 6, 126 purchasers	$430.00
School 7, 133 purchasers	$85.75
School 8, 97 purchasers	$355.00
792 pupils in the grade schools	had invested in war savings stamps $2,685.17.

Children Bond Holders.

There are in No. 2 school, he said, 25 "bond holders," children who own a total of $1,500 in Liberty bonds.

In No. 3, 4 have invested $450. No. 4, 9 invested $450. No. 5, 22 invested $1,100. No. 6, 40 invested $3,300. No. 7, 52 invested $4,600. No. 8, 53 invested $3,650.

Judge Clearwater's Remarks.

Judge Clearwater said that we could not all buy Liberty Bonds, but there were few of us who could not in some manner contribute to the winning of the war, and the war thrift and savings stamp scheme had been devised by the government as a measure which will enable practically every citizen who earns anything to assist to that end. Not only is it a patriotic act to buy these stamps, but it was an investment which has behind it the distinct guarantee of the government that it will increase in value, and therefore the small investor not only is sure of a return of his money, but will in fact receive a large proportionate return than the investor in Liberty Bonds. It is not so much the amount, which a man or woman invests, as it is the spirit of willingness to assist the government in this tragic and cataclysmic emergency. His audience should remember the Biblical story of the widow's mite, whose contribution was of immortal fame because of the spirit which prompted it, while the contributions of the wealthy Pharisees, Scribes and Sadducees of her day were forgotten within a week after they were made. The judge said that it was appalling to appear that the people of the United States as a whole do not as yet comprehend the gravity of the military and economic situation. Many of them think because they have been put to a trifling inconvenience is not being able to eat wheat bread or satiate themselves with sugary sweets, they are fighting the war for the Allies. It is undeniable that this attitude is entirely due to the utter lack of comprehension and preparation upon the part of the American people for this conflict, notwithstanding the repeated warnings which for many years had been given that it was impending.

When He Met Hindenberg.
He alluded to a visit he had made to the fortress at Mayence in Germany thirty years ago, at which time General Von Hindenberg was at the head of the German War College, and in command of the fortress. The judge had gone there to see the Eiglestein, the cairn of stones erected by the soldiers of the Second and Ninth Roman legions in memory of the younger Drusus, who was killed by a fall from his horse at that place at the time of Caesar's invasion of Helvetia. He found Von Hindenberg and his officers studying the maps of the fortresses of Paris. Upon the judge remarking that they were fighting over their old battles, Von Hindenberg replied no, it was not the fortresses which the Germans had destroyed in 1870, they were studying, but the new fortresses which the French had erected. It was at this time he said that General Boulanger was practicing around Paris on his black charger, and talking of the "grand revanche," and Von Hindenberg said that it was not at all improbable that the Germans would have to repeat the conquests of 1870, and demolish the new fortifications.

The judge spoke of the record of Kingston and Ulster county in every war from the settlement here in 1658. He said that always the people of Kingston had discharged more than their patriotic duty; they had done so in the French and Indian, and Revolutionary wars, the war of 1812 and 1848, the Civil war, the Spanish-American war, and had poured out money lavishly in this present war, "but," he said, "you are only beginning, and it is imperative you should cultivate the habit of giving, because all that has been done is but an insignificant prelude to what is to follow, and you must prepare yourselves to face the inevitable burdens of the war, not only in the interests of such remnants of democracy as are left to us but in the interests of the homes and firesides of Kingston.

HUNTER STREET WOMEN INJURED

Thursday morning while Mrs. Robert Buchholz, of No. 50 Hunter street, was walking down the Hone street hill she stubbed her toe and fell to the sidewalk. She sustained a broken nose and was cut about the face.

That afternoon Mrs. Roger Peters, of No. 50 Hunter street, slipped and fell down a flight of stairs at her home. Fortunately she escaped with a severe shaking up. She was bruised, however, about the arm and side, but no bones were broken.

Truth Not in Them Then.
"Will you give me some advice?" asked the youthful candidate. "Why, certainly, my boy," answered the veteran campaigner. "The first thing for you to learn is that you can't feel the public pulse by listening to what men say just after the drinks and cigars have been passed around."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Young writers will do well to remember that Lord Bacon rewrote one of his works 12 times; and Pascal his letters several times, and one of them 13 times; while Edmund Burke had his works printed two or three times on a private press before offering them to a publisher.

HYLAND BROTHERS BOTH IN TRENCHES

French Soldiers Care for Wounded Germans Who Are 16 Years Old
—Sector Was Quiet Until Americans Located There.

The Hyland boys, Thomas and James—they are brothers—have been under fire while in the trenches in France and have written interesting accounts to their family. Both are members of the 165th Infantry.

Private Thomas Hyland has written to his mother, Mrs. Patrick Hyland, of 120 Prospect street, under date of April 3, as follows:

"I received your welcome letter and was glad to hear from you and to know you are well. Brother James and I are the same. I received a letter from Cousin Thomas in Kingston and was delighted to hear from him. I also received three letters from Cousin Alice in Ireland. They are all well over there.

"Well, mother, I suppose you have heard of our regiment being in the trenches, but we are out now and at a rest camp, as well as ever. We are in a large town now and have no drilling to do.

"Joseph Madden got a slight touch of gas but he will be all right in a few weeks. We have lost but a few men. I suppose it was in the New York papers. We may not go in again for some time. James was in nine days and I was in thirteen days. James will write as often as possible, but you know he isn't stuck on writing.

"Well, dear mother, don't worry about us. We will be all right and feel fine. This thing cannot last much longer. The Germans are getting the worst of it now. They are losing a lot of their men. The town we are in has a large hospital, and we saw French soldiers taking wounded Germans from it, and the majority of them are only boys sixteen and seventeen years old, so they must be putting them in the field awful young.

"I would like to send some souvenirs home, but they have the name of the town on them and we are not allowed to send them. But when we are going across the pond again I will bring some with me. There are very fine churches in this town, just like the city churches. Then there are two Y. M. C. A.'s and they serve hot chocolate every day. There are a few American women working for the 'Y' over here.

"There was a soldier from the 165th Regiment, which is from Iowa, who was buried over here and I was one of the firing squad at the grave. Father Duffy was also there. The sector where we first went in was quiet, but it was not enough when we left.

"We have seen many aeroplane fights and on the 17th of March saw a German plane shot down by a French officer. It was some battle. It fell about a mile from our dug-out. We were with the French soldiers in the trenches. I guess I have told you all the news.

"Hoping this will find you all well, and hoping to hear from all soon, I am,

Your loving son,
THOMAS.

Private James E. Hyland has written to his sister, Mrs. H. Cooke, of Greenwich, Conn., as follows:

"Yours received and was very glad to hear from you and to know you are well. Tom and I are enjoying good health.

"I suppose you have heard by this time about our regiment being in the trenches. We were in for a short time. I was in for nine days and Tom was in for thirteen. It was rather a quiet sector when we went there, but it was like stirring up a bee's nest when the Germans found out the Americans had taken over the trenches. We are far behind the lines now, in a good sized town, and don't have to drill so we have a lot of time to ourselves. We won't go to the front again for some time.

"Last night I was at a movie show which is run by French soldiers; only two cents admission. I had a letter and a box of shamrock from Cousin Alice. They are well.

"I don't think the war can last very long. The enemy sure is getting an awful whipping. We will hope to be home by next Christmas anyway. We did not receive the box you sent yet, but hope to soon.

"We did some hiking the past winter, thirty and forty miles at a stretch. We did not get our furloughs as yet but hope we soon will. We can hear the big guns night and day, and believe me they make some racket. We have a fine 'Y' in this town, something going on every night.

"Tell mother not to worry about us. Though we are near the front, we are all very happy. We get three good meals a day, so the guns don't bother us very much. Dear sister, I will close now, as I have no more news. Will be watching for a letter from you and hope to get one soon. Regards to all my friends. Love to yourself."

Additional Contributors.

Several other names should have been included in the list of contributors to the relief fund raised in this city for the war sufferers in Lithuania and Poland which was published in The Freeman Thursday night. The additional contributors were: S. Baker, $5; H. Simon, $1; Mrs. Goldstein, $1; H. Carp, $1. The name of Mrs. Goldberg should have appeared for Mrs. Goldberg, and I. Isaacson for I. Sussin.

Vibrations Ear Can Detect.

The ordinary human ear can detect a tone whose vibration rate is at least 25,000 vibrations a second, while the whistle will produce 50,000 a second. This upper limit varies with the age of the individual to such an extent that, if the upper limit at sixteen years of age were 50,000 vibrations, at sixty years of age it would be about 25,000 a second.

$5,000 JUDGMENT UPHOLD BY COURT

The judgment and order in the case of Florence Rolfe, as the administratrix of the estate of her husband, Edmund Rolfe, who was an artist at Woodstock, against Joseph F. Hewitt of New York city, tried here at the October term of Supreme Court, Judge Hasbrouck presiding, and resulting in a verdict for Mrs. Rolfe, has been affirmed by the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Rolfe was killed in an automobile accident on March 30 of last year. He was riding in an auto owned by Hewitt and driven by Terence McCarthy. The auto overturned on the Woodstock state road. McCarthy was instantly killed and Rolfe died a few hours later in the Kingston City Hospital.

Rolfe was engaged in work about the Hewitt summer residence then in course of construction at Woodstock and it was claimed in the trial that at the time of the accident Rolfe was in the employ of Hewitt, having been sent to Bearsville for materials. The defense contended that Rolfe was not employed by the defendant nor was he sent for supplies, but was asked to hand a memorandum of the materials needed to McCarthy, instead of doing which he got in the machine with him.

The action was brought for $100,000 and attracted much attention. Hamilton, Gregory & Freeman of New York city, and Joseph M. Fowler of this city, appeared for plaintiff; James B. Henny of New York, A. J. Nellis of Albany and F. E. W. Darrow of Kingston, represented the defense.

Paid Fine of $5.

Ira A. Burgher was arrested early this morning on Broadway, near Cornell street, by Officer Martin for running his auto with one of the number plates missing. In police court later he pleaded guilty and Judge Schirck imposed a fine of $5 which he paid.

Don't Let BUGS Eat Up Your Garden

Of course, you will catch the big ones, but the little fellows!
Look out for them. They are really quite as dangerous. Aphids, a little green bug, not much larger than a pin head, once it gets a start, will destroy a garden. It sucks the juices of the plants, stunts their growth and lowers both yield and quality. Spray peas, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, onions, cucumbers and other vegetables and flowers with Black Leaf 40.

Kills Aphids, Thrips, Leaf Hopper and other soft-bodied, sap-sucking insects on trees, shrubs, flowers, vines and vegetables.
Black Leaf 40 is highly concentrated. A little goes a long way. Manufactured by The Kentucky Tobacco Product Co., Incorporated, Louisville, Kentucky.
We can supply your needs from one ounce for small vegetable and flower gardens up to 10-pound containers for large orchards. Recommended by Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

Mind Still a Puzzle.

Science hopes that in time it may discover the method whereby the billions of brain cells operate in making us the thinking creatures we are. It would know why the large mind is not always the large brain; why we reach our everyday conclusions in the diversified affairs; why we act, plot, scheme, why, as Professor Scott asserts, the brain can stand the strain of persistent work better than the muscles of the body.

Many Religions in World.

Religions are of more numerous kinds than can well be classified. At the present time it is estimated there are throughout the world about 500-000,000 Christian adherents, including 270,000,000 Roman Catholics and 170-
000,000 Protestants; nearly 400,000,000
Confucians and Taoists; 210,000,000 followers of Hinduism; 200,000,000 Mohammedans; 140,000,000 Buddhists and 12,000,000 members of the Jewish faith.

DISTRIBUTION OF SUGAR TO CANNERS

It Will Be Systematized This Year
And Be Under the Federal Food Administration's Control.

Distribution of sugar to meet this summer's canning demands will be under a modified certificate system.
In order to make sure that home canners may obtain sufficient sugar to preserve perishable fruits and at the same time to place a check upon those who would endeavor to obtain unreasonable quantities for household consumption. The check on consumption will be exercised through the retailers—considered a much more satisfactory method than the card system adopted in other countries—chiefly to guard against temporary shortages that may occur if more vessels are diverted from the Cuban trade, and at the same time to assure a supply adequate to meet the extensive demand hoped for from home canners.

Retail dealers in all states will be provided by their federal food administration with certificates which must be signed by the consumers before they obtain the amount of sugar needed for home canning. Each certificate has blank spaces for the name of the dealer, the signature and address of the consumer, and the amount needed for canning and preserving purposes only. The certificate must be returned within one week after it is signed to the federal food administrator for the state in which the purchase is made.

In order to build up reserve stocks to take care of the canning demand jobbers are now permitted to hold sugar sufficient to meet their needs for 60 instead of 30 days. Where necessity demands federal food administrators will have authority to allow the sale of more than 1,000 pounds—the present limit—to retailers. The prescribed limits of retail sales for other than canning purposes will still be maintained—not over 5 pounds to people living in cities; not more than 10 pounds to those living in the country.

Commercial canners in every state will be allowed to increase immediately purchases and gradually to accumulate sufficient sugar to meet full requirements of their 1918 canning operations. The new regulation which permits canners to carry a season's supply does not, however, extend the latitude to manufacturers of less essential foodstuffs.

SOUTH RONDOUT.

South Rondout, May 10.—The leader of the Christian Endeavor on Sunday night will be Edwin Maines.
Topic: Christian Endeavor Fellowship, 1 John 1:1-7.

The district superintendent, Dr.
Bell, held the first quarterly conference after the prayer meeting on Thursday night.

The Ladies' Aid held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Edwin Dunn on Wednesday night. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the parsonage.

The Ladies' Aid Society of South Rondout M. E. Church wish to thank the talented artists, who so ably and graciously assisted us at the entertainment on May 7th. We also wish to thank those who gave donations toward the cause—wiring the parsonage with electricity. It was Mrs.
Osterhout's and Mrs. Tinnie's first appearance in the South Rondout church, which was not lacking in its appreciation of their talent. Miss M.
Hyde, a former resident, rendered some very sweet music, and Sam Tinnie as usual was very heartily applauded. We cannot give too much credit to Miss Marchant who proved a very efficient accompanist. The concert proved a complete success both as to pleasure and finance, netting us the sum of $28.55.

The Men Who Can Help.

Each town, under the leadership of its most active spirits, such as its chamber of commerce or county council of defense, itself should immediately make a survey of all able-bodied men who have had farm experience and obtain pledges to spend a day or two out of each week or a week, if need be, out of the month at the periods of greatest demand, in order to help the farmers. There are many men working in the towns whose places can be taken by the women. I have in mind particularly men waiters, elevator boys, and clerks whose work can be well substituted, if the business sentiment of the town will act resolutely and persuade employers to use women temporarily in order that the men may be released for farm labor as the occasion may require.—Clarence Osley, assistant secretary of agriculture.

Varied Breeds of Swans.

There are three kinds of swans—
the white, which in various varieties circles the northern hemisphere, the black, which upset current notions
when it was discovered in Australia, and the more recent and most remarkable of all, the white swan with a black neck, which is found in Chili and which breeds in the Antarctic.

Complex Action Automatic.

Houdini, the sleight-of-hand performer, in one of his acts used to keep four balls moving in air, and this complex series of actions, which at the start depended upon a guiding perception, daily became a mere automatic movement to him. He frequently referred to a book or newspaper while performing the balls.

CONGRESS SPLIT OVER REVENUE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 10.—Congress was split wide open this afternoon over Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's demand for the immediate enactment of new revenue legislation adding billions to America's tax budget to meet the extraordinary estimates presented by the war department for next year's army expenses.

Representative Kitchen, the majority leader of the House, conferred with Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, today, and told him that the sentiment of the House was opposed to carrying out Mr. McAdoo's proposal at this time. The finance committee also met and informally decided to make an effort to dissuade Mr. McAdoo from pressing his demand at the present session. Members of the committee took the view that additional revenue legislation at this time would create unnecessary business disturbance and that other means could be found to tide the government's finances over until the next session. A special session of congress to consider revenue legislation immediately after the November election was also suggested by leaders as a way around Mr. McAdoo's plan.

DISPENSARY MAY OPEN NEXT WEEK

Appeal in Freeman Results in Gift of Scales.

Once more evidence is furnished that any sort of real tuberculosis work in this community is popular. In Thursday's Freeman there appeared an appeal in connection with the article on the new Tuberculosis Dispensary, for scales, desk, chairs or benches (comfortable) with which to equip the dispensary. Within a few hours after the appearance of the Freeman at the various homes, Dr. O'Meara was notified of a gift of physician's scales, the donor being Mrs. R. R. Thompson. Nothing as good as these scales had been dared to be hoped for, and this gift is appreciated as being one of particular value and usefulness. Doubtless the other articles asked for will also be donated, thus saving actual money to the furtherance of the tuberculosis work. It is now expected that the dispensary will open early next week, the exact day and the hours to be announced in The Freeman.

MEDALS FOR NURSES.

Recommended for Two Women for Courageous Conduct.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 10.—Two American Red Crosses have been recommended for the British Military Medal as a recognition of their courageous conduct under fire. It was announced today. They are Miss Beatrice Mary MacDonald of New York city and Miss Eva Jean Parmelee of Springfield, Mass.

Miss MacDonald, head nurse from the General Presbyterian Hospital, while on duty as a surgical nurse in an evacuation station, was injured by a bomb from a German aeroplane. A fragment of the shell entered her right cheek and in its course penetrated the pupil of one eye, destroying the sight. During the attack before receiving her injuries, she had displayed remarkable courage and continued her work in the operating room until struck.

Miss Parmelee was wounded by the explosion of a bomb from an enemy airplane. Though wounded and badly shocked, she courageously stuck to her post, caring for the wounded.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 10.—Trading was extremely brisk at the opening of the stock market today with various issues advancing, while others were in supply at substantial concessions. Interest continued concentrated in Steel Common, which started with sales at 197 to 198½, then made a sharp advance to 199½, again lifting its high record for the year. There was a constant changing of tone in other issues. Union Pacific moving up one point to 124½, with a quick reaction to 123½. New Haven advanced over one point to 34½, and dropped to 33½ in the next few minutes. Tobacco Products was in steady demand, advancing to above 60, a gain of over one point. There was much in the market movement during the early trading to indicate that a condition approaching panic had been created in the bear ranks and that many of those who still maintained a short position in the market were being forced to cover because of exhaustion of resources. New York Central made an advance of 1½ to 73½. Southern Pacific rose ½ to 85½.

Trading in stocks during the forenoon was the largest noted so far on this movement, the transactions in the first hour amounting to around 450,000 shares. Steel Common after selling at 198½, rose to 199½ followed by a reaction of one point. The other Steel Industrials made gains of around 2 points. Tobacco Products moved ½ to 61 and there was persistent buying of New York Central which rose nearly 2 points to 73½. The initial transactions in the Liberty 4½'s were made at 99.10 from which the price dropped to 98.50 on large transactions. It was said that the selling came from out of town banks.

Early in the afternoon Steel Common touched a new high record for the year of 199½. At this price the stock was over 3 points above the low of the morning.

The stock market closed irregular today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.

TROOP TRAIN WENT THROUGH TRESTLE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Columbia, S. C., May 10.—Seven soldiers were killed and ten injured, three of them, it is believed fatally, when a train loaded with soldiers went through a trestle near Camp Jackson today. Two passenger coaches were splintered. The men were being transferred from Camp Jackson to Greenville and were members of the 321st Infantry.

The officers will not give out any names until a thorough canvass of the correct list is made. The wreck was on the Southern Railway.

The train was moving slowly when the trestle, probably weakened by recent rains, gave way. The light coaches were crushed like paste-board.

AMERICAN PRAISE FOR BRITISH NAVY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 10.—Naval officials here were highly elated today when they learned of the latest exploit of the British navy. The bottling of the German submarine base at Ostend, following so closely the sealing up of the Zebrugge base, was conceded one of the most spectacular features of the war. It was pointed out that in addition to strategic results obtained, the psychological effect upon Germany would of necessity be marked.

The British navy has been discounted continually by Germany and even held up to ridicule. But now that it has asserted itself in two brilliant exploits in less than a fortnight, the effect is certain to be highly discouraging to the enemy.

Naval officials pointed out that the sacrifice of the Vindictive was inconsequential in comparison with the results obtained.

FOOTBALL IN FRANCE KEEPS LIBERTY LADS FIT TO BUCK THE GERMAN LINE

Our troops have made baseball well known to the people of France by their constant playing of the game. Now they are doing the same service for the American style of football. Weather conditions have less influence on football than on baseball, so the liberty lads have found greater opportunity for it. Army commanders, too, advocate the game, for it hardens the men and makes them fit to buck the German line.

This photograph shows a mixed group of soldiers and interested French folk living near the American camp watching the soldiers play. The quarterback is calling off the signals as the teams face each other braced for the impact of rushing bodies.

HIS GREATEST GAME

Just before Ray Chapman came to Cleveland from Toledo in 1912, he had a day that he never will forget. Toledo was playing Minneapolis. Rube Waddell started for the Millers, but Comstock finished. All Ray did was to make three singles, a double and a home run in five times up, drive in a bunch of runs, score four himself, steal home once and have a perfect day in the field with nine assists.

PETER-THE-GREAT ENJOYS FULLY EQUIPPED BUNGALOW

Elite horse racing circles have been invaded by the bungalow craze and "Peter-the-Great" the famous 2:07½ steers, has a bungalow home to himself on the estate of Stoughton A. Fletcher, the Indianapolis millionaire horseman. The bungalow cost $1,500 and is fully equipped with electric lights, hot and cold water, large electric fan for the summer time and even a porch and flower boxes. In the photograph "Peter-the-Great" is "sitting" by the side of his bungalow home. Mr. Fletcher purchased "Peter-the-Great" just a year ago from W. E. D. Stokes, a New York turfman, for $50,000.

The Atlanta club announces that it has taken on two players who were with Mobile last year in Catcher Dave Griffith and Infield Ward McDowell.

STOP FREAK BALL PITCHING
Elimination Ought to Result in More Batting, Making Games Enjoyable to Fans.

The elimination of all freak pitching from the American association this coming season ought to result in more batting and consequently in more enjoyable games for the spectators.

The layman naturally thinks that it will be pretty hard work to regulate this matter of freak pitching, but those who have studied the problem say that it is comparatively easy, so that part need not concern us at all, says Milwaukee Sentinel. Where there is a rule they say it can be enforced. Drastic measures may be necessary, but that does not concern the patron.

The probabilities are that the average baseball follower would really like to see more hitting, and if the rule works out to this end it will be an accepted one.

UNCLE SAM'S ALL-STAR TEAM
Most Excellent Machine Could Be Put Together With Many Players in Navy and Army.

If Uncle Sam wanted to put a team in the National or American League races he could get up a star team with the many players who have entered the military and naval service in the last few months. He could choose as his pitchers, Pfeffer, Sherrod Smith and Cadore, of the Robins; Shore, of the Red Sox; Rixey, of the Phillies, and Goodwin, of the Cardinals. Hank Gowdy, of the Braves, would make a very acceptable United States catcher, while Gaiher, of the Red Sox, could play first; Barry, of Athletics, third, and Maranville, of the Braves, shortstop. Lewis and Shorten, of the Red Sox, would find a place in the outfield, as would Jacobson, of the Browns. Some team, you will admit.

President Duncan of the Oklahoma City club of the suspended Western association is quoted as saying that he expects to see Oklahoma City in the Western league by July 4.

The Oakland club has lost a promising pitcher because of the injury to Lockhardt, the Indian. He broke a ligament in his pitching wing and will be out of the game indefinitely.

According to Newark report Infielder Jack Lewis has been sold the Indianapolis club. According to Stenhouse report, that being Lewis' habitat, he has quit baseball. So there you are.

Big salaries are a thing of the past in the American association. The limit now of the clubs will play this year is $300 a month and one manager remarked that few players will get that amount next year.

WAR CALLS FOR CO-ORDINATION

And While Episcopal Churches Have Discussed Consolidation, They Will Continue For the Present As In The Past.

To the Editor of the Freeman:
An article in this morning's issue of the Kingston Daily Leader seems to give such a false impression of the meeting of the three Episcopal Churches, held at St. John's Parish House on Wednesday evening of this week, that I beg of you, through the columns of the Freeman to correct such an impression.

As stated in the article, I felt it to be to the best interests of the Episcopal Churches in Kingston at this time, to make a reference publicly to that meeting, for the simple reason that the purpose of the same was only an informal discussion of the entire subject.

As a result of the very friendly discussion, it was deemed wise for the three churches in this city, at present, to continue as in the past. Furthermore I would like to say that the proposed consolidation of the Church of the Holy Spirit and Holy Cross along such lines as mentioned in the article, was not even mentioned, let alone discussed, and support of the two mentioned parishes being such as to make such a move absurd.

The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that through the union services of the past winter a closer fellowship and clearer understanding of the work and mission of the Episcopal Churches in this city had been gained, and the best of feeling prevailed.

The Leader article further states, "I do not desire to be regarded as having any material interest in the matter." This statement is particularly misleading as it was largely at my suggestion that this meeting was held at St. John's parish house, and the men were invited there.

The Rev. Father Lange, the Rev. J. J. Bell and myself have made it clear to our congregations that the times call for every effort of conservation and co-ordination in the church as elsewhere for the good of our country through the increased efficiency of the church. And any matter of real interest to the growth and betterment of the Episcopal Churches in Kingston must always be of deep interest to me, whether I am in Kingston or elsewhere.

(Signed)
REV. J. J. BLAIR LARNED.

RED CROSS DOGS DUE HERE TUESDAY

Allen McMullen, the trapper, who is helping the Red Cross campaign by driving a Red Cross ambulance pulled by Great Dane dogs, will visit Kingston on Tuesday, May 14, arriving here at 4 p. m., after which he will be entertained until 8 p. m. He left Albany Wednesday and McMullen a picturesque trapper who owns the dogs and especially trained them for this trip and who built the ambulance himself, carried a message from governor Whitman to Mayor Hyland of New York city.

There is a seventh dog which goes with the team, but runs unattached. His name is Foxy, and he is part Esquimaux dog and part wolf. He runs ahead scouting out the road or beside the Great Danes, encouraging them by barking, or urging them on when they lag by snapping or snapping them with his teeth.

McMullen and his team will take over two weeks to make the trip from Albany to New York city, camping along the road, and arriving in New York city on Friday, May 24.

On the way from Albany McMullen will camp along the road. His tent and equipment are all of his own construction. Stays of several hours will be made in Hudson, Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh where officials of the local Red Cross Chapters have arranged various activities in which the trapper and his team will play the central role.

McMullen is an unusual character who has lived much in the Arctic Circle. A canny Scotchman, he knows how to look out for himself. His clothes, made out of the skins of deer he himself has shot in the Adirondacks, were cut and sewed by himself.

Even in his home district, up in Lewis county, the Adirondack section of New York state, the sight of him driving and sleighing with his dogs invariably draws a crowd.

CHANCE FOR ULSTER BOYS TO GO TO CAMP

Plans have been made for a Farm Boys' Camp to be held at the Syracuse state fair grounds during the state fair week, September 9-14. Detailed arrangements will be under the supervision of Commissioner Charles S. Wilson, of the division of agriculture, department of farms and markets, Albany, N. Y.

The ruling of the state fair commission for the camp is as follows: A boys' camp will be organized for state fair week, consisting of one farm-reared boy from each county of the state between the ages of 14 and 18 inclusive, who shall be chosen in the following manner:

The district superintendents of a county shall constitute a committee on arrangements for a county judging contest and shall designate a suitable committee of judges consisting of three members and including either agent or officer of the farm bureau, the master of the Pomona Grange and one other.

The contestant shall signify his intention of entering the contest in advance of the date set and shall furnish the committee with a written statement verified by his parents to the effect that he is familiar with and has performed various farm operations.

On the day designated by the superintendents the boys shall be assembled at some convenient point (a farm if necessary) where they shall be examined on their knowledge of (a) livestock, (b) farm crops, according to score cards furnished them by the committee of judges, or in any other manner the judges shall determine.

The contestants shall also present a statement of not more than 500 words, containing a concise and accurate account, vouched for by the parent or some other responsible adult, of the activities of the contestant during the preceding spring and summer along food production lines. The statement shall include information on the kind and extent of (a) farm chores; (b) field work; (c) work with livestock; (d) work with fruit or other special crops; (e) home project or other activity of a productive nature for which contestant was chiefly or solely responsible.

Liberty for Children.

A recent Italian educator has declared that unnecessary restriction in a child's life is a crime. There must be rules, of course, and children must learn to obey, but much friction can be eliminated by avoiding unnecessary commands. There should be few rules, but these should be firmly adhered to. It is infinitely better not to give a command than to let a child evade it. The habit of teasing for a thing will never develop if this course is faithfully followed.

AUTO CLUB MEMBERS ASKED TO ASSIST

President William R. Bennett, of the Automobile Club of Ulster county, has sent out to the members of that club the pledge which they are asked to sign if they wish to aid actively in the Farm Volunteer Movement by providing transportation for the volunteers between their houses and the farms.

In his letter, President Bennett says: "We are now in a great struggle. We are going to beat the Hun. For liberty and democracy throughout the world, the freedom of which we have enjoyed for over 140 years, and we are in a position to greatly aid this cause."

I ask this association, which is composed of our best citizens, to stand as one man to co-operate at all times with our state and nation for the principles we all hold dear and the flag we all love.

We are including self explanatory blank pledge and addressed envelope and we would appreciate your consideration of this matter at your earliest convenience. If you approve this action please sign the enclosed blank and return to the secretary's office at once.

Thanking you for your hearty co-operation at this time, I beg to remain, very truly yours,
WM. R. BENNETT, President.

Dear Becomes Domesticated.

The efficient protection given them by the state game commission and the United States forest service in their efforts to preserve the deer, elk, antelope and mountain sheep that roam the Colorado forests has resulted in large herds. It is no unusual sight in the towns bordering the Uncompahgre national forest to see many of these wild animals grazing in the village streets.

Seemingly Contradiction.

The Oriental may be inscrutable, but he is no more puzzling than the average American. We admit that we are hard, keen, practical,—the adjectives that every casual European applies to us,—and yet any book-store window or railway news-stand will show that we prefer sentimental magazines and books. Why should a hard race—if we are hard—read soft books?—Henry S. Canby, in the Atlantic.

SAVE TIME IN THE KITCHEN
GAIN TIME IN THE GARDEN

TIME is a matter of great importance to every housewife today. Precious moments must not be misused nor wasted. Cooking duties that can readily be attended to in a few minutes or an hour must not be permitted to occupy an entire morning.

CABINET GAS RANGE FOR TIME ECONOMY

The installation of a modern Cabinet Gas Range in the home will so reduce cooking labors that the housewife will find herself with ample time to devote to the backyard garden or to Red Cross Work.

No need to fuss with fuel or ash and its attendant muss—no fires to build or watch. Heat regulation perfect and instantaneous. You can put your baking in the oven, adjust the heat and be assured perfect results.

CARING FOR SEED POTATOES NOW

Good seed is an important factor in potato production. Potatoes which have grown long sprouts have lost a part of their vitality and can never produce as good a crop as potatoes which have not sprouted before planting. No one would think of pasturing corn after it was up and thus compelling the plant to grow another stalk, yet most potatoes have grown one set of sprouts before they are put in the ground. Where a cellar is cool enough to keep potatoes from sprouting the seed need not be disturbed until the time of planting. Unfortunately few cellars can be depended upon and it is necessary to remove the potatoes. Potatoes should be taken at once from the cellar and spread out on the barn floor or some other light, dry place. Here the seed will remain hard and few sprouts will grow, leaving the strength of the potato to put forth good, healthy sprouts after planting.

It has been the custom at the State Agricultural School farm to "green" the potatoes. Two weeks before planting time the seed is placed on the lawn in the sun. Short stubbed green sprouts are produced. These do not break off when planted by hand, and make a much earlier rugged top. This plan is especially recommended for the garden where early potatoes are desired.

ARDONIA.

Ardonia, May 10.—The food conservation meeting held in the school house May 4 was attended by about thirty-five mothers and housewives. The meeting began by an entertainment by the pupils of the school, which had been planned by their teacher for this occasion. Two of the older boys were dressed in farmer costumes and marched in the school room with their "crops" (children dressed to represent the various food products). After they had taken their places they gave a most interesting dialogue showing the substitutes that may be used to save wheat, sugar, etc. Several solos were rendered, the enjoyable of these being sung by children of the first and second grades. At the close of the entertainment to the tune of "Pack Up Your Troubles" the children left the room, those representing the exports we send to France going one way and the substitutes going another. After this Lillian M. Stuart gave a lecture on food illustrated by stereopticon slides. This was very interesting and beneficial to all. Leaflets containing many useful and economical recipes were distributed, after which coffee and sandwiches were served by the Mothers' Club. At the close of the entertainment Miss Malcolm was presented with a bountiful birthday gift by the Mothers' Club. This they did partly show their appreciation to her for the splendid teaching she is giving their children. It is very easy for one to see how much good work she is doing by simply stepping inside the school building, aside from the fact that she has won the love and respect of the children who attend her school and we hope the Mothers' Club will continue to give her these tokens of appreciation for her services.

SHADY.

Shady, May 9.—The girls of Camp Fire "Home-Lor" of Shady, take little time to breathe this spring. May 9 they gave a successful entertainment for the benefit of their adopted French orphan and of our boys over there.

May 18th, at 8 p. m., Miss Stuart, home demonstration agent for Ulster county, will give an illustrated lecture on food conservation. The program will include a play, "Home Guard," several patriotic songs produced during the war and other interesting items. All are urged to come. No admission fee; light refreshments will be for sale.

No Nutrient in Bouillon. Bouillon has no more nourishing qualities than hot salt water. All the nutrient is still in the meat from which the broth was made. The bouillon is a stimulant, that is all. There is no more horrible waste than to throw away a piece of meat from which broth has been made.

Rub Youngsters' Cold Away With "Outside" Vapor Treatment

Local Druggists Have Imported the Invention of a North Carolina Druggist That Relieves Croup and Cold Troubles by External Application.

You Can Try a 25c Jar on 30 Days' Trial and Your Druggist Will Refund the Purchase Price if You Are Not Delighted With the Test.

Every mother breathes a sigh of relief when she first tries the North Carolina treatment, Vick's VapoRub, and finds that it is no longer necessary to "dose" the children with nauseous medicines for croup or cold troubles. VapoRub comes in salve form and when applied over the throat and chest the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, all night long, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs. At the same time VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin taking out that tightness and soreness in the chest.

VapoRub has a hundred uses in the home—for deep chest colds, sore throat, bronchitis or incipient pneumonia just apply well over the throat and chest and cover with a warm, flannel cloth. For head colds, hay fever, asthma or catarrhal troubles VapoRub can either be applied up the nostrils or a little melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled. Croup is usually relieved within fifteen minutes and an application at bedtime prevents a night attack.

All mothers are urged to take advantage of the 30-day trial offer now being made by the local druggist and see for themselves just what VapoRub will do.—Advertisement.

 Detroit, Mich., May 10.—Ralph H. Windhorst, Chicago broker, was found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government in the sale of supplies at Camp Custer, Mich., today and sentenced to two years at Leavenworth Prison and to pay a fine of $10,000. ### WOOD ASHES AS FERTILIZER

Good for Grapes, and Half Bushel to a Vine Is About Right—Pruno Second Season.

Wood ashes make a good fertilizer for grapes, and half a bushel to the vine will not be too much. No pruning will be required the first season, but the second season cut back the strongest canes to three or four buds and remove the others.

PRUNING ON PRAIRIES

One cannot prune trees on the prairies in the winter as much as in a moist climate. A tree butcher who has gained his knowledge of pruning in Ontario or Nova Scotia will be a dangerous man to turn loose in Manitoba for instance. Care and watchfulness of the growing tree will make the cutting off of big limbs unnecessary.

Arthur Protests.

Arthur was passing a day with his aunt. "I am going to do something to please you on your birthday," she said to the little boy, "but first I want to ask the teacher how you behave at school." "If you really want to do something to please me, auntie," said the boy, "don't ask the teacher."—Lippincott's.

Cigarette Papers.

A rather dignified lady got a little shock the other afternoon. She called at the house of a new acquaintance and the little fellow who answered the door said, that his mother was out. The dignified lady took out a card to leave and in doing so let the tissue sheet flutter to the ground. The boy glanced at it. "Please'm," he said, "you dropped one of your cigarette papers."—Boston Transcript.

Chesterfield and Voltaire.

The fourth earl of Chesterfield was on one occasion at a grand assembly in France where Voltaire was one of the guests. Suddenly the French writer accosted his lordship with the words: "My lord, I know you are a judge. Which are the more beautiful, the English or the French ladies?" "Upon my word," replied Chesterfield, with his usual presence of mind, "I am no judge of paintings."—Argonaut.

Took Their Grain to Mill.

The report published in a Bridgeport newspaper that the owner of a grist mill at Sandy Hook, Conn., having secured a few bags of wheat, ground it up and sold it to his neighbors to be mixed with Western flour, the result being a cheaper material for bread, brings us back to the days of hardy more than a generation ago, when Northern farmers produced grain on their farms and had it ground in the neighboring grist mill, then an institution to be found within a few miles of every neighborhood. There was no indication in those days that the ground product of the grain, whether corn or wheat, was inferior to any produced elsewhere. But now with the advent of modern machinery our civilization seems to demand a flour from which every particle of nutritious gluten, so far as it tends to discolor the flour, is eliminated. As for home-grown, home-ground cornmeal, that is a rarity, known only to a few old-time epicures

Eleven, by Actual Count.

An old toper started home one night in his normal condition, with a turkey which he had bought for his Christmas dinner. The road was rough, and he fell several times over all sorts of obstructions in the path, dropping the turkey each time, but picking it up again. Entering his house, he steadied himself as well as he could, and said to his wife:

"Here, wife, I've brought you eleven turkeys."
 "Eleven turkeys?" cried his wife. "I see but one."
 "Nonsense, you're blind!" cried her good man. "Why, I fell down eleven times coming home, and I swear I picked up a turkey every time!"

"SEWER FIGHTERS"

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American Army on the French Battle Front, May 9—(Delayed)—Standing shoulder to shoulder with the French on the Picardy front, the Americans are tensely awaiting the new Boche offensive. A return of pleasant weather coupled with military observations indicates early attacks.

The doughboys say that the attacks cannot come too quick for them. They are in the pink of condition and tough as leather. The artillery and machine gun units are trained to the minute.

The infantry is itching for a scrap and full of confidence. The French are full of admiration, but this feeling is mutual.

An American officer remarked: "The Boches that clash against the section of the line held by the Americans will find tough going. The physical fitness of the Americans is much admired by the French officers."

The fact that the Germans are screened only by hastily constructed trenches and shallow pits is hailed as an advantage for the Americans. The Americans are indifferent to the fact that they are at the same disadvantage as the Germans.

The Americans say that the Germans lose punch and courage when they are out of their trenches. The Yankees call the Germans "Sewer fighters."

Triumphant Return of Seal Hunters

Crew of Schooner After Successful Trip Into the Ice Floes of the Frozen North

With their tow lines swung over their shoulders, after their day's work is done and they have earned a well-earned rest, the men are dragging their "fur" in sacks over the snow. Often these crews bring in hauls valued at $5,000. The seal industry is one of the biggest and each year the output is greater, and the furs command a higher price.

Rest Rooms For Rural Women

Rest rooms have been established in more than 200 counties in the United States to meet the needs of the country woman in town on business. They provide a place, says the United States department of agriculture, where the farm woman has a right, without asking any favors, to the use of facilities for rest and refreshment. They have been established by women's rural organizations in co-operation with other local organizations, with individuals, and with village, town, or county authorities; by business corporations operating private city markets, and by individual merchants. Where farm women's organizations have been interested in establishing rest rooms, local farm women's clubs have been able to arouse the necessary community interest in the need for rest rooms to insure their financial support. This has been done through co-operating with other local farm women's clubs, with organizations of women in town, with civic leagues, with chambers of commerce, and with county agents.

In co-operating with other clubs in establishing a rest room, any local farm woman's club may take the initiative. Opportunity is given at club meetings for discussing the need for a rest room, and other local clubs may be asked to arrange similar discussions. Such co-operation is facilitated in rural communities where local clubs meet together for joint sessions three or four times a year.

Through their organizations town and country women have co-operated in providing rest rooms near railroad stations, where the waiting-room facilities are inadequate. They have co-operated in establishing libraries which provide convenient and adequate rest rooms for town and country women. Aroused community interest frequently results in securing a vacant room in the town hall, county courthouse, public market, or other public building.

Frequently rest rooms are provided in dry goods stores and in grocery stores. A rest room at Kalanazoo, Mich., has been in use since 1912, and has become the common meeting place for country people living in different directions from the city. The number of country women dealing with these business houses warranted the establishment of rest rooms by the proprietors to meet the needs of their customers.

Widows' Pensions.

An act of congress of October 8, 1917, provided that from and after its passage "the rate of pension for a widow of an officer or enlisted man of the army, navy or marine corps of the United States who served in the Civil war, the war with Spain, or the Philippine insurrection, now on the pension roll or hereafter to be placed on the pension roll, and entitled to receive a less rate than hereinafter provided, shall be construed to affect the additional allowance provided by existing pension laws on account of a helpless child or child under sixteen years of age." This law made $25 a month the uniform rate for all soldiers' widows then on the pension rolls at less than that rate or who should thereafter be placed on the pension roll.

Making the Dandelion Beautiful.

The original chrysanthemum, from which all the superb varieties we know today are descended, was, in its wild state, no bigger or handsomer than a dandelion. It is found that the latter grows with astonishing rapidity and luxuriance of bloom under cheescloth shade.

Back Yard Poultry

Uncle Sam expects you to keep hens and raise chickens, even though you do reside in a town or city.

Two hens in the back yard for each person in the house will keep a family in fresh eggs.

The smallest back yard has room for a flock large enough to supply the house with eggs. The cost of maintaining such a flock is small.

Table and kitchen waste provides much of the feed for the hens and they require but little attention.

An interested child, old enough to take a little responsibility, can care for a few fowls as well as a grown person.

Every back yard should contribute its share to a "bumper crop" of poultry and eggs in 1918. Perhaps not all will find it profitable to raise chickens in town, but nearly everyone can well keep a few hens. The objection to the "crowing of the cock" can be overcome by keeping no cock. This will not affect egg production in the least.

The house for the back-yard flock should be inexpensive. A piano box or other large box may readily be converted into a suitable residence for the hens, and the runs may be very small.

Good hens, well cared for, will produce from ten to fifteen dozen eggs annually.

In time of peace the back-yard flock may be regarded as a profitable recreation; in time of war, a patriotic duty.

Buy a few hens and start in at once. All hens are laying now or will be soon.

COST DETERMINES PRICE ON RE-SALE

By Federal Trade Commission.

For a considerable time there has been a controversy throughout the country over the question of the right of manufacturers, wholesalers, etc., to fix resale prices at which articles could be sold, and the right to maintain such resale prices has been contended for by them, and the question whether such right exists has been brought before the Federal Trade Commission numerous times. Many hearings have been had, and much consideration has been given to the subject by that commission. Many business concerns have been refusing to sell to customers who would not agree to maintain the resale price fixed by the seller.

The Federal Trade Commission has just disposed of the first of these cases in which complaints have been issued charging violations of law through fixing the resale price of articles, and an order to cease and desist from this practice has just been issued by it in the case of Chester Kent & Company, Inc., of Boston, manufacturers of proprietary medicines.

The order forbids the company to (a) Indicate to dealers the prices for which its proprietary or patent medicines shall be resold.

(b) Securing agreements from dealers to adhere to such prices.

(c) Refusing to sell to dealers who fail to adhere to such prices.

(d) Refusing to sell to dealers who fail to adhere to such prices upon the same terms as dealers who do so adhere.

(e) Furnishing any advantage to dealers who adhere to the resale prices while refusing similar treatment to dealers who do not adhere to the prices.

This order of the commission follows the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the American Graphophone Company case lately decided by it.

After full consideration the Federal Trade Commission has decided to issue complaints against all business concerns who refuse to sell unless the purchaser will agree to maintain a resale price fixed by the seller. The case just decided is the first of that effect.

When once an article has passed from the maker to a purchaser, he owns it, and the owner of such article may sell it at any price that he chooses provided he does not himself sell it at such price as to be below cost, and thus thereby enter into unfair competition with other retailers selling the same article.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are victory menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Saturday.
Breakfast—Spiced apple sauce, cornmeal mush with top milk, fish cakes, coffee made with milk.

Lunch or Supper—Cheese soup, hashed brown potatoes, buckwheat bread, orange and celery salad.

Dinner—Baked eggs with pimiento, macedoine of vegetables, lemon pie (potato and cornmeal pastry).

*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.
Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

Americans have not the cheese eating habit. European countries are way ahead of us in their appreciation of this cheap and satisfying food. There is a surplus of cheese in storage in the country and the American housewife, limited in many of the things she is accustomed to use, should take advantage of this abundance. The small boy's torso and pungent "cheese it" should be seriously incorporated into the family emergency program.

Cheese Soup.
1 cup thin white sauce, 3 tablespoons grated cheese, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon onion juice, 2 tablespoons parsley salt, pepper.

Add the cheese and seasoning to the hot white sauce. Just before serving add the well beaten yolk of egg and parsley, finely minced.

Baked Eggs With Pimiento Potatoes.
2 cups rice potatoes, 1/2 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 4 eggs.

Mix the potatoes, butter, milk, salt and pimiento together. Arrange in a greased baking dish; make four or more indentations and into each break an egg. Dust with salt and pepper, sprinkle with crumbs and bake until the eggs are set, or longer, if desired, until the eggs are cooked hard.

Potato and Cornmeal Pastry.
1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup cold mashed potato, 1/2 cup fat, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder.

Sift the cornmeal into the boiling water and cook it for 10 minutes. Cool and add the other ingredients. Allow the mixture to stand for at least an hour before rolling it out, in order that it may be more easily handled. It may be made the date before it is used. This pastry is good for pies in which the crust is baked first, such as lemon or chocolate pie. It is somewhat difficult to handle.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus, which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

MAYOR WILLING TO CONSULT ALDERMEN

But In the Meantime He Vetoes License Ordinance Passed Several Days Ago, Giving Reasons in Detail.

Mayor Canfield today filed the following veto with the city clerk:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
Kingston, N. Y., May 9th, 1918.
The Honorable, The Common Council of the City of Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I herewith return the annexed proposed ordinance to amend the license ordinance with my disapproval.

In state matters, a legislative proposition is passed upon by both the assembly and the senate before reaching the governor for approval or disapproval. In national matters a bill must be approved by both branches of congress before reaching the president for action. In many cities there are two bodies consisting of councilmen and aldermen which must pass upon legislation before it is sent to the mayor. In our city we consider one legislative body sufficient to pass upon city legislation before it is transmitted to the mayor. The responsibility placed upon the mayor is, therefore, equal to that of your honorable body in such matters.

Often when proposed legislation is presented to your body for action, it is simply read over, and no time is given to the members to carefully study and analyze it. Errors often creep in legislation even when drafted by very careful and competent men. Bills introduced in the legislature are often amended many times and sometimes entirely changed before being "whipped" into final shape for action. Therefore, an alderman should not take exception to or offense at any similar course in relation to any proposed ordinance introduced by him.

It is my opinion that, except in cases where immediate action is necessary or advisable, any proposed ordinance should be referred to the committee on laws to report at the next regular meeting with their recommendation as to its legality, and as to whether it is proper in form, and in other ways as to their approval or disapproval. This committee could and probably would invite the alderman introducing it to such meeting, and it would be given proper study and due consideration, and your body would have the benefit of that before taking action.

The ordinance in question is objectionable for one reason because a part of it, in fact the part constituting the only change made by the introducer, would "go a begging." Such part is useless and inconsistent with other similar parts. The part I refer to is the fee of $150.00 for a combined motion picture, vaudeville and opera license for places with a seating capacity of over five hundred. This ordinance is drawn with scaling fees for licenses for motion pictures, vaudeville and opera. The fees are balanced and increased gradually until this one item is reached. Such a fee would be a "dead letter." The ordinance permits of such a place obtaining separately a license for one year for motion picture for $40.00, and one for vaudeville for $40.00, and one for opera for $40.00, a total of $120.00. No proprietor of such a place would be so foolish as to pay $150.00 to have the license on one paper when he could obtain the same rights on three papers for $120.00. Besides this, the ordinance permits one to obtain a combined motion picture and opera license for $75.00, and a separate vaudeville license for $40.00, a total of $115.00. This would be the course any proprietor would pursue, rather than pay $150.00 more to have his license on one paper instead of two papers.

Anyone would characterize a merchant as being ignorant who would offer to sell separately a coat for $10.00, and the vest for $5.00, and the trousers for $5.00, and then want $30.00 for the three if bought together. Any sensible purchaser would simply buy the articles separately and pay a total of $20.00, and the merchant would make no sales for $30.00.

If the figures other than $150.00 are proper and reasonable, then that figure is wrong. If the $150.00 is right the other figures are incorrect. I am willing to sustain any reasonable fee fixed by your honorable body providing they are consistent with one another. I am not willing to stamp my approval upon a nugatory and ineffectual license fee.

I can conceive of no reason for any trivial "beating the air" on this proposition. There is no occasion for anyone considering its possible effect upon any one special playhouse because the license for such place does not expire this year. Therefore, any effort to connect that place with anyone's opinion upon this question is in vain.

I desire to further call your attention to the fact that there is another proposed ordinance before you for consideration covering the same subject, which should be disposed of in some way. The charter provides that when an ordinance is returned to the common council by the mayor with his disapproval, "the common council shall, at its next regular meeting thereafter, proceed to reconsider the ordinance." In reference to the other ordinance, after its return to you it was laid on the table. There might be a question raised as to whether the charter provisions have been complied with by laying it on the table and by taking no further action. Besides, it is still before you undecided and can be brought up for consideration at any time, and there is a grave question whether another ordinance inconsistent therewith in terms, but covering the same subject, can be legally and properly passed under the circumstances. Personally, I do not believe it can. Your honorable body has not, as yet, reconsidered the other ordinance, but only postponed the reconsideration thereof by laying it temporarily on the table.

I desire to reiterate and repeat again that I will be pleased to have any alderman consult with me, and I will be very willing to co-operate with them in any possible way upon any subject or matter involving or affecting the city.

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.,
Mayor.

SUES ESTATE ON NOTE FOR $3,000

Action Brought by Dr. Oliver Against the Estate of Late Frank Y. Sahler to Recover Alleged Principal and Interest.

The action brought by Dr. James Oliver of High Falls against Mrs. Esther J. Sahler, as administratrix of the late Frank Y. Sahler, to recover $3,000 on a note alleged to have been given to him by the decedent, was begun in the supreme court on Thursday afternoon. The doctor also asks for interest amounting to $725.50. He was represented by Frank W. Brooks and John W. Eckert.

Mrs. Sahler was represented by Amos Van Ethen and Virgil B. Van Wagoner. The defendant disclaims any knowledge of the existence of the note until it was brought to her and alleges that if the note was signed by the decedent it was when he was not physically or mentally capable of realizing what he was doing.

James I. Van Demark, 60 years old, of Lake Mohonk, was the principal witness called, and many of his answers were of such a humorous nature that attorneys and the crowd in the court room laughed so heartily that the court had to rap for order.

Van Demark stated that the decedent told him he lived at the home of Dr. Oliver for two years, off and on, and was treated by him, especially for rheumatism.

The note was shown to Van Demark by Mr. Brooks. Van Demark said that he was familiar with the decedent's handwriting and that the signature on the note was that of the decedent.

The case was held up on several occasions Thursday afternoon to settle various local points which the respective attorneys brought out. There were many objections to questions by both sides. The case was continued today.

Sunday Night Sermon.

"The Will to Victory" will be the fourth in the series of Sunday night Plain Talks on War Topics delivered in St. James's Methodist Episcopal Church by the pastor. It is a theme that needs not only to be discussed, but it contains a truth to be practiced by the American people.

America having put its hand to the plow, must not turn back until the end of the furrow is reached. As on former Sunday nights, Dr. Baragwanath will speak with exceeding plainness, without fear or favor.

The service will begin at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30. At the morning service, Mothers' Day will be observed, and there will be appropriate decorations and music.

Another Appreciative Advertiser.

To the Editor of The Freeman.
Sir:—I write to tell The Freeman how I appreciate the paper as an advertising medium. Beginning the latter part of April I have had a ten-inch double column ad inserted in your paper, and through the paper's circulation here in New York I was enabled to secure an order for 800,000 lithographed and 200,000 engraved letterheads, which were turned out within ten days from the time the order was placed. Besides I have had several inquiries from readers of the paper in Kingston and Ulster county.

BIG BAPTIST CONVENTION.

To Open Next Week at Atlantic City, N. J.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10.—Baptist laymen in large numbers with many preachers of the denomination, delegates from churches in thirty-four states, will meet here May 15 for the opening session of the eleventh annual meeting of the Northern Baptist Convention. It is expected that between three and five thousand delegates will be present. Many matters of interest to the Baptists will be considered, and the big convention promises to be a series of lively sessions.

The future of the movement developed by the Baptist Laymen in their campaign for an Extra Million Dollars, headed by F. Wayland Ayer, of Camden, N. J., the well-known advertising man; will be decided on "Laymen's Day," Saturday, May 18. There is a strong sentiment in some quarters that some action should be taken to conserve this great movement with the forming of a permanent organization. The matter will have the best thought of the convention.

TILLSON ROAD CASE ARGUED.

Plaintiffs Object to Maintenance of Gates.

The cases of Zina C. Coutant and Anson S. Coutant, appellants, against Iver E. Evers, respondent, and of Joseph Vargoneck, appellant, against Evers, were argued before the appellate division of the supreme court at Albany Thursday. The appeals are from the amended judgments of Judge Hasbrouck, before whom the cases were tried some time ago. The question involved was a right of way over the Evers farm at Tillson.

Judge Hasbrouck decided that the plaintiffs had established their right to use the road in question. The judgment was amended by providing that gates should be maintained at both ends of the road and these gates should during the summer season be opened and closed by persons using this road. It is from this provision of the judgment that the plaintiffs appealed. DeWitt W. Ostrander is the attorney for the plaintiffs and Daniel B. Deyo and Joseph M. Fowler represented the defendant.

Peculiar Presents for Bride.

In social circles of the Celestials the family of the bridegroom makes presents to the family of the bride of various articles a few days before the day fixed for the marriage. The presents generally consist of food, the leg and foot of a pig, the leg of a goat, eight small cakes of bread, eight torches, three pairs of large red candles, a quantity of vermicelli and several bunches of firecrackers.

HYLAND BROTHERS BOTH IN TRENCHES

French Soldiers Care for Wounded Germans Who Are 16 Years Old
—Sector Was Quiet Until Americans Located Them.

The Hyland boys, Thomas and James—they are brothers—have been under fire while in the trenches in France and have written interesting accounts to their family. Both are members of the 165th Infantry.

Private Thomas Hyland has written to his mother, Mrs. Patrick Hyland, of 120 Prospect street, under date of April 3, as follows:

"I received your welcome letter and was glad to hear from you and to know you are well. Brother James and I are the same. I received a letter from Cousin Thomas in Kingston and was delighted to hear from him. I also received three letters from Cousin Alice in Ireland. They are all well over there.

"Well, mother, I suppose you have heard of our regiment being in the trenches, but we are out now and at a rest camp, as well as ever. We are in a large town now and have no drilling to do.

"Joseph Madden got a slight touch of gas but he will be all right in a few weeks. We have lost but a few men. I suppose it was in the New York papers. We may not go in again for some time. James was in nine days and I was in thirteen days. James will write as often as possible, but you know he isn't stuck on writing.

"Well, dear mother, don't worry about us. We will be all right and feel fine. This thing cannot last much longer. The Germans are getting the worst of it now. They are losing a lot of their men. The town we are in has a large hospital, and we saw French soldiers taking wounded Germans from it, and the majority of them are only boys sixteen and seventeen years old, so they must be putting them in the field as well young.

"I would like to send some souvenirs home, but they have the name of the town on them and we are not allowed to send them. But when we are going across the pond again I will bring some with me. There are very fine churches in this town, just like the city churches. Then there are two Y. M. C. A.'s and they serve hot chocolate every day. There are a few American women working for the 'Y' over here.

"There was a soldier from the 165th Regiment, which is from Iowa, who was buried over here and I was one of the firing squad at the grave. Father Duffy was also there. The sector where we first went in was quiet, but it was not enough when we left.

"We have seen many aeroplanes fight and on the 17th of March saw a German plane shot down by a French officer. It was some battle. It fell about a mile from our dug-out. We were with the French soldiers in the trenches. I guess I have told you all the news.

"Hoping this will find you all well, and hoping to hear from all soon, I am,

Yours truly,

THOMAS.

Private James E. Hyland has written to his sister, Mrs. H. Cooke, of Greenwich, Conn., as follows:

"Yours received and was very glad to hear from you and to know you are well. Tom and I are enjoying good health.

"I suppose you have heard by this time about our regiment being in the trenches. We were in for a short time. I was in for nine days and Tom was in for thirteen. It was rather a quiet sector when we went there, but it was like stirring up a bees' nest when the Germans found out the Americans had taken over the trenches. We are far behind the lines now, in a good sized town, and don't have to drill so we have a lot of time to ourselves. We won't go to the front again for some time.

"Last night I was at a movie show which is run by French soldiers; only two cents admission. I had a letter and a box of shaverkit from Cousin Alice. They are well.

"I don't think the war can last very long. The enemy sure is getting an awful whipping. We will hope to be home by next Christmas anyway. We did not receive the box you sent yet, but hope to soon.

"We did some hiking the past winter, thirty and forty miles at a stretch. We did not get our furloughs as yet but hope we soon will. We can hear the big guns night and day, and believe me they make some racket. We have a fine 'Y' in this town, something going on every night.

Tell mother not to worry about us. Though we are near the front, we are all very happy. We get three good meals a day, so the guys don't bother us very much. Dear sister, I will close now, as I have no more news. Will be watching for a letter from you and hope to get one soon. Regards to all my friends. Love to yourself."

Additional Contributors.

Several other names should have been included in the list of contributors to the relief fund raised in this city for the war sufferers in Lithuania and Poland which was published in The Freeman Thursday night. The additional contributors were: S. Baker, $5; H. Simon, $1; Mrs. Goldstein, $1; H. Carp, $1. The name of Mrs. Goldfarb should have appeared for Mrs. Goldberg, and I. Isaacson for I. Susan.

Vibrations Ear Can Detect.
The ordinary human ear can detect a tone whose vibration rate is at least 25,000 vibrations a second, while the whistle will produce 50,000 a second. This upper limit varies with the age of the individual to such an extent that, if the upper limit at sixteen years of age were 50,000 vibrations, at sixty years of age it would be about 25,000 a second.

$5,000 JUDGMENT UPHELD BY COURT

The judgment and order in the case of Florence Rolfe, as the administratrix of the estate of her husband, Edmund Rolfe, who was an artist at Woodstock, against Joseph F. Hewitt of New York city, tried here at the October term of Supreme Court, Judge Hasbrouck presiding, and resulting in a verdict for Mrs. Rolfe, has been affirmed by the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Rolfe was killed in an automobile accident on March 30 of last year. He was riding in an auto owned by Hewitt and driven by Terence McCarthy. The auto overturned on the Woodstock state road. McCarthy was instantly killed and Rolfe died a few hours later in the Kingston City Hospital.

Rolfe was engaged in work about the Hewitt summer residence then in course of construction at Woodstock and it was claimed in the trial that at the time of the accident Rolfe was in the employ of Hewitt, having been sent to Bensville for materials. The defense contended that Rolfe was not employed by the defendant, nor was he sent for supplies, but was asked to hand a memorandum of the materials needed to McCarthy, frustrated of doing which he got in the machine with him.

The action was brought for $100,000 and attracted much attention. Hamilton, Gregory & Freeman of New York city, and Joseph M. Fowler of this city, appeared for plaintiff; James B. Hennessey of New York, A. J. Nellis of Albany and F. E. W. Darrow of Kingston, represented the defense.

Paid Fine of $5.

Ira A. Burgher was arrested early this morning on Broadway, near Corwell street, by Officer Martin for running his auto with one of the number plates missing. In police court later he pleaded guilty and Judge Schrick imposed a fine of $5 which he paid.

CONGRESS SPLIT OVER REVENUE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 10.—Congress was split wide open this afternoon over Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's demand for the immediate enactment of new revenue legislation adding billions to America's tax budget to meet the extraordinary estimates presented by the war department for next year's army expenses. Representative Kitchen, the majority leader of the House, conferred with Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, today, and told him that the sentiment of the House was opposed to carrying out Mr. McAdoo's proposal at this time. The finance committee also met and informally decided to make an effort to dissuade Mr. McAdoo from pressing his demand at the present session. Members of the committee took the view that additional revenue legislation at this time would create unnecessary business disturbance and that other means could be found to tide the government's finances over until the next session. A special session of congress to consider revenue legislation immediately after the November election was also suggested by leaders as a way around Mr. McAdoo's plan.

DISPENSARY MAY OPEN NEXT WEEK

Appeal in Freeman Results in Gift of Scales.

Once more evidence is furnished that any sort of real tuberculosis work in this community is popular. In Thursday's Freeman there appeared an appeal in connection with the article on the new Tuberculosis Dispensary, for scales, desk, chairs or benches (comfortable) with which to equip the dispensary. Within a few hours after the appearance of The Freeman at the various homes, Dr. O'Meara was notified of a gift of physician's scales, the donor being Mrs. K. K. Thompson. Nothing as good as those scales had been dared to be hoped for, and this gift is appreciated as being one of particular value and usefulness. Doubtless the other articles asked for will also be donated thus saving actual money to the furtherance of the tuberculosis work. It is now expected that the dispensary will open early next week, the exact day and the hours to be announced in The Freeman.

MEDALS FOR NURSES.

Recommended for Two Women for Courageous Conduct.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 10.—Two American Red Crosses have been recommended for the British Military Medal as a recognition of their courageous conduct under fire, it was announced today. They are Miss Jeanette Mary MacDonald of New York city and Miss Eva Jean Parmelee of Springfield, Mass.

Miss MacDonald, head nurse from the General Presbyterian hospital, while on duty as a surgical nurse in an evacuation station, was injured by a bomb from a German airplane. A fragment of the shell entered her right cheek and in its course penetrated the pupil of one eye, destroying the sight. During the attack her right arm was broken, and she displayed remarkable courage and continued her work in the operating room until struck.

Miss Parmelee was wounded by the explosion of a bomb from an enemy airplane. Though wounded and badly shocked, she courageously stuck to her post, caring for the wounded.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 10.—Trading was extremely brisk at the opening of the stock market today with various issues advancing, while others were in supply at substantial concessions. Interest continued concentrated in Steel Common, which started with sales at 107 to 106 1/2, then made a sharp advance to 109 1/2, again lifting its high record for the year. There was a constant changing of tone in other issues, Union Pacific moving up one point to 124 1/2, with a quick reaction to 123 1/2. New Haven advanced over one point to 34 1/2, and dropped to 33 1/2 in the next few minutes. Tobacco Products was in steady demand, advancing to above 60, a gain of over one point. There was much in the market movement during the early trading to indicate that a condition approaching panic had been created in the bear ranks and that many of those who still maintained a short position in the market were being forced to cover because of exhaustion of resources. New York Central made an advance of 1 1/2 to 73 1/2. Southern Pacific rose 1/2 to 85 1/2.

Trading in stocks during the forenoon was the largest noted so far on this movement, the transactions in the first hour amounting to around 450,000 shares. Steel Common after selling at 106 1/2, rose to 109 1/2, followed by a reaction of one point. The other Steel industrial made gains of around 1/2 to 1 and there was persistent buying of New York Central which rose nearly 2 points to 73 1/2. The initial transactions in the Liberty 4 1/2's were made at 89 1/2 from which the price dropped to 87 1/2 on large transactions. It was said that the selling came from out of town banks.

Early in the afternoon Steel Common touched a new high record for the year of 109 1/2. At this price the stock was over 2 points above the low of the morning.

The stock market closed irregular today; government bonds unchanged, railway and other bonds irregular.

TROOP TRAIN WENT THROUGH TRESTLE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Columbia, S. C., May 10.—Seven soldiers were killed and ten injured, three of them, it is believed fatally, when a train loaded with soldiers went through a trestle near Camp Jackson today. Two passenger coaches were splintered. The men were being transferred from Camp Jackson to Greenville and were members of the 321st Infantry.

The officers will not give out names until a thorough canvass of the correct list is made. The wreck was on the Southern Railway.

The train was running slowly when the trestle, probably weakened by recent rains, gave way. The light coaches were crushed like paste-board.

AMERICAN PRAISE FOR BRITISH NAVY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 10.—Naval officials here were highly elated today when they learned of the latest exploit of the British navy. The bottling of the German submarine base at Ostend, following so closely the sealing up of the Zebruggen base, was conceded one of the most spectacular features of the war. It was pointed out that in addition to strategic results obtained, the psychological effect upon Germany would of necessity be marked.

The British navy has been discounted continually by Germany and even held up to ridicule. But now that it has asserted itself in two brilliant exploits in less than a fortnight, the effect is certain to be highly discouraging to the enemy.

FOOTBALL IN FRANCE KEEPS LIBERTY LABS FIT TO BUCK THE GERMAN LINE

Our troops have made baseball well known to the people of France by their constant playing of the game. Now they are doing the same service to the American style of football. Weather conditions have less influence on football than on baseball, so the liberty labs have found greater opportunity for it. Army commanders, too, advocate the game, for it hardens the men and makes them fit to buck the German line.

This photograph shows a mixed group of soldiers and interested French folk living near the American camp watching the soldiers play. The quarterback is calling of the signals as the teams face each other braced for the impact of rushing bodies.

HAS PENNANT-WINNING TEAM

Manager Miller Huggins of New York Yankees, Believes He Will Win Championship.

Miller James Huggins, the new leader of the New York Yankees, is thirty-eight years old, and one of the smallest men in baseball, standing 5 feet 4 inches. Huggins played in St. Paul, 1900 to 1905; Cincinnati, 1904 to 1909; and St. Louis Nationals, 1910 to 1917, inclusive.

Huggins was appointed manager of the Yankees last winter, succeeding "Wild Bill" Donovan, who has replaced Jimmy Burke as coach for the Detroit Tigers. With Derrill Pratt at second base, Huggins believes he has a pennant-winning team in New York. St. Louis fans are particularly interested in Huggins. He finished third twice with the St. Louis Cardinals, staging a wonderful pennant drive with the local club in 1914.

His Greatest Game

Just before Ray Chapman came to Cleveland from Toledo in 1912, he had a day that he never will forget. Toledo was playing Minneapolis. Rube Waddell started for the Millers, but Comstock finished. All Ray did was to make three singles, a double and a home run in five times up, drive in a bunch of runs, score four himself, steal home once and have a perfect day in the field with nine assists.

PETER-THE-GREAT ENJOYS FULLY EQUIPPED BUNGALOW

Elite horse racing circles have been invaded by the bungalow craze and "Peter the Great" has no exception. He has a bungalow home to himself on the estate of Stoughton A. Fletcher, the Indianapolis millionaire horseman. The bungalow cost $1,500 and is fully equipped with electric lights, hot and cold water, large electric fan for the summer time and even a porch and flower boxes. In the photograph "Peter-the-Great" is "staring" by the side of his bungalow home. Mr. Fletcher purchased "Peter-the-Great" just a year ago from W. E. D. Sikes, the New York turfman, for $50,000.

STOP FREAK BALL PITCHING

Elimination Ought to Result in More Bunting, Making Games Enjoyable to Fans.

The elimination of all freak pitching from the American association this coming season ought to result in more bunting and consequently in more enjoyable games for the spectators.

The layman naturally thinks that it will be pretty hard work to regulate this matter of freak pitching, but those who have studied the problem say that it is comparatively easy, so that part need not concern us at all, says Milwaukee Sentinel. Where there is a rule they say it can be enforced. Drastic measures may be necessary, but that does not concern the patron.

The probabilities are that the average baseball follower would really like to see more hitting, and if the rule works out to this end it will be an accepted one.

UNCLE SAM'S ALL-STAR TEAM

Most Excellent Machine Could Be Put Together With Many Players in Navy and Army.

If Uncle Sam wanted to put a team in the National or American League he could get up a star team with the many players who have entered the military and naval service in the last few months. He could choose as his pitchers, Pfeffer, Shorrock Smith and Cadore, of the Robins; Shore, of the Red Sox; Rixey, of the Phillies, and Gooden, of the Cardinals. Hank Gowdy, of the Braves, would make a very acceptable United States catcher, while Galsor, of the Red Sox, could play first; Barry, of Athletics, third; and Meranville, of the Braves, shortstop. Lewis and Shorten, of the Red Sox, would find a place in the outfield, as would Jacobson, of the Browns. Some team, you will admit.

President Duncan of the Oklahoma City club of the suspended Western association is quoted as saying that he expects to see Oklahoma City in the Western league by July 4.

The Oakland club has lost a promising pitcher because of the injury to Lockhart, the Indian. He broke a ligament in his pitching wing and will be out of the game indefinitely.

According to Newark report infielder Jack Lewis has been sold the Indianapolis club. According to St. Louis report, that being Lewis' habit, he has quit baseball. So there you are.

Big salaries are a thing of the past in the American association. The bulk most of the clubs will play this year is $300 a month and one manager remarked that few players will get that amount next year.

WAR CALLS FOR CO-ORDINATION

And While Episcopal Churches Have Discussed Consolidation, They Will Continue For the Present As In The Past.

To the Editor of the Freeman:
An article in this morning's issue of the Kingston Daily Leader seems to give such a false impression of the meeting of representatives of the vestries of the three Episcopal Churches, held at St. John's Parish House on Wednesday evening of this week, that I beg of you, through the columns of the Freeman to correct such an impression.

As stated in the article, I felt it to be to the best interests of the Episcopal Churches in Kingston at this time, to make no reference publicly to that meeting, for the simple reason that the purpose of the same was only an informal discussion of the entire subject.

As a result of the very friendly discussion, it was deemed wise for the three churches in this city, at present, to continue as in the past. Furthermore, I would like to say that the proposed consolidation of the Church of the Holy Spirit and Holy Cross along such lines as mentioned in the article, was not even mentioned, the relative equipment and support of the two mentioned parishes being such as to make such a move absurd.

The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that through the union services of the past winter a closer fellowship and clearer understanding of the work and mission of the Episcopal Churches in this city had been gained, and the best of feeling prevailed.

The Leader article further states, "I do not desire to be regarded as having any material interest in the matter." This statement is particularly misleading as it was largely at my suggestion that this meeting was held at St. John's parish house, and the men were invited there.
The Rev. Father Lange, the Rev. J. J. Bott and myself have made it clear to our congregations that the times call for every effort of conservation and co-ordination in the church as elsewhere for the good of our country through the increased efficiency of the church. And any matter of real interest to the growth and betterment of the Episcopal Churches in Kingston must always be of deep interest to me, whether I am in Kingston or elsewhere.
(Signed)
REV. J. I. BLAIR LARNED.

RED CROSS DOGS DUE HERE TUESDAY

Allen McMullen, the trapper, who is helping the Red Cross campaign by driving a Red Cross ambulance pulled by Great Dane dogs, will visit Kingston on Tuesday, May 14, arriving here at 4 p. m., after which he will be entertained until 5 p. m. He left Albany Wednesday and McMullen a picturesque trapper who owns the dogs and especially trained them for this trip and who built the ambulance himself, carried a message from Governor Whitman to Mayor Hyland of New York City.

There is a seventh dog which goes with the team, but runs unattached. His name is Foxey, and he is part Equimaux dog and part wolf. He runs ahead scuttling out the road or beside the Great Danes, encouraging them by barking, or snapping them on when they lag by snapping or nipping them with his teeth.

McMullen and his team will take over two weeks to make the trip from Albany to New York City, camping along the road, and arriving in New York City on Friday, May 24.

On the way from Albany McMullen will camp along the road. His tents and equipment are all of his own construction. Stays of several hours will be made in Hudson, Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh where officials of the local Red Cross chapters have arranged various activities in which the trapper and his team will play the central role. McMullen is an unusual character who has lived much in the Arctic Circle. A canny Scotchman, he knows how to look out for himself. His clothes, made out of the skins of deer he himself has shot in the Adirondacks, were cut and sewed by himself.

CHANCE FOR ULSTER BOYS TO GO TO CAMP

Plans have been made for a Farm Boys' Camp to be held at the Syracuse state fair grounds during the state fair week, September 9-14. Detailed arrangements will be under the supervision of Commissioner Charles S. Wilson, of the division of agriculture, department of farms and markets, Albany, N. Y.

The ruling of the state fair commission for the camp is as follows: A boys' camp will be organized for state fair week, consisting of one farm-reared boy from each county of the state between the ages of 14 and 18 inclusive, who shall be chosen in the following manner:

The district superintendents of a county shall constitute a committee on arrangements for a county judging contest and shall designate a suitable committee of judges consisting of three members and including either agent or officer of the farm bureau, the master of the Pomona Grange and one other.

The contestant shall signify his intention of entering the contest in advance of the date set and shall furnish the committee with a written statement verified by his parents to the effect that he is familiar with and has performed various farm operations.

On the day designated by the superintendents the boys shall be assembled at some convenient point (a farm if necessary) where they shall be examined on their knowledge of (a) livestock, (b) farm crops, according to score cards furnished them by the committee of judges, or in any other manner the judges shall determine.

The contestants shall also present a statement of not more than 500 words, containing a concise and accurate account, vouched for by the parent or some other responsible adult, of the activities of the contestant during the preceding spring and summer along food production lines. The statement shall include information on the kind and extent of (a) farm chores; (b) field work; (c) work with livestock; (d) work with fruit or other special crops; (e) home project or other activity of a productive nature for which contestant was chiefly or solely responsible.

Liberty for Children.
A recent Italian educator has declared that unnecessary restriction in a child's life is a crime. There must be rules, of course, and children must learn to obey, but much friction can be eliminated by avoiding unnecessary commands. There should be few rules, but these should be firmly adhered to. It is infinitely better not to give a command than to let a child disobey it. The habit of making for a thing will never develop if this course is faithfully followed.

AUTO CLUB MEMBERS ASKED TO ASSIST

President William R. Bennett, of the Automobile Club of Ulster county, has sent out to the members of that club the pledge which they are asked to sign if they wish to aid actively in the Farm Volunteer Movement by providing transportation for the volunteers between their houses and the farms.

In his letter, President Bennett says: "We are now in a great struggle. We are going to beat the Hun. For liberty and democracy throughout the world, the freedom of which we have enjoyed for over 140 years, and we are in a position to greatly aid this cause."

I ask this association, which is composed of our best citizens, to stand as one man to co-operate at all times with our state and nation for the principles we all hold dear and the flag we all love.

We are including self explanatory blank pledge and addressed envelope and we would appreciate your consideration of this matter at your earliest convenience. If you approve this action please sign the enclosed blank and return to the secretary's office at once.

Thanking you for your hearty co-operation at this time, I beg to remain, very truly yours,
WM. R. BENNETT, President.

Dear Becomes Domesticated.
The efficient protection given them by the state game commission and the United States forest service in their efforts to preserve the deer, elk, antelope and mountain sheep that roam the Colorado forests has resulted in large herds. It is no unusual sight in the towns bordering the Ocmulgee national forest to see many of these wild animals grazing in the village streets.

Seemingly Contradiction.
The Oriental may be inscrutable, but he is no more puzzling than the average American. We admit that we are hard, keen, practical—the adjectives that every casual European applies to us—and yet any book-store window or railway news-stand will show that we prefer sentimental magazines and books. Why should a hard race—if we are hard—read soft books?—Henry S. Canby, in the Atlantic.

WOOD ASHES AS FERTILIZER

Good for Grapes, and Half Bushel to a Vine Is About Right—Prune Second Season.

Wood ashes make a good fertilizer for grapes, and half a bushel to the vine will not be too much. No pruning will be required the first season, but the second season cut back the strongest canes to three or four buds and remove the others.

PRUNING ON PRAIRIES

One cannot prune trees on the prairies in the winter as much as in a moist climate. A tree butcher who has gained his knowledge of pruning in Ontario or Nova Scotia will be a dangerous man to turn loose in transition for instance. Care and watchfulness of the growing tree will make the cutting off of his limbs unnecessary.

Cigarette Papers.
 A rather dignified lady got a little shock the other afternoon. She called at the house of a new acquaintance and the little fellow who answered the door said, that his mother was out. The dignified lady took out a card to leave and in doing so let the tissue sheet flutter to the ground. The boy glanced at it. "Please," he said, "you dropped one of your cigarette papers."—Boston Transcript.

Chesterfield and Voltaire.
 The fourth earl of Chesterfield was on one occasion at a grand assembly in France where Voltaire was one of the guests. Suddenly the French writer accosted his lordship with the words: "My lord, I know you are a judge. Which are the more beautiful, the English or the French ladies?" "Upon my word," replied Chesterfield, with his usual presence of mind, "I am no judge of paintings."—Argonaut.

Took Their Grain to Mill.

The report published in a Bridgeport newspaper that the owner of a grist mill at Sandy Hook, Conn., having secured a few bags of wheat, ground it up and sold it to his neighbors to be mixed with Western flour, the result being a cheaper material for bread, brings us back to the days of hardy more than a generation ago, when Northern farmers produced grain on their farms and had it ground in the neighboring grist mill, then an institution to be found within a few miles of every neighborhood. There was no indication in those days that the ground product of the grain, whether corn or wheat, was inferior to any produced elsewhere. But now with the advent of modern machinery our civilization seems to demand a flour from which every particle of nutritious gluten, so far as it tends to discolor the flour, is eliminated. As for home-grown, home-ground cornmeal, that is a rarity, known only to a few old-time epicures and secured by them with considerable difficulty. In the southern Appalachians, however, the old-time grist mill is still in use.—Providence Journal.

Eleven, by Actual Count.

An old toper started home one night in his normal condition, with a turkey which he had bought for his Christmas dinner.

The road was rough, and he fell several times over all sorts of obstructions in the path, dropping the turkey each time, but picking it up again.

Entering his house, he steadied himself as well as he could, and said to his wife:

"Here, wife, I've brought you eleven turkeys!" cried his wife. "I see but one."

"Nonsense, you're blind!" cried her good man. "Why, I fell down eleven times coming home, and I swear I picked up a turkey every time!"

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army on the French Battle Front, May 9—(Delayed)—Standing shoulder to shoulder with the French on the Picardy front, the Americans are tensely awaiting the new Boche offensive. A return of pleasant weather coupled with military observations indicates early attacks.

The doughboys say that the attacks cannot come too quick for them. They are in the pink of condition and tough as leather. The artillery and machine gun units are trained to the minute.

An American officer remarked: "The Boches that clash against the section of the line held by the Americans will find tough going. The physical fitness of the Americans is much admired by the French officers."

The fact that the Germans are screened only by hastily constructed trenches and shallow pits is hailed as an advantage for the Americans. The Americans are indifferent to the fact that they are at the same disadvantage as the Germans.

The Americans say that the Germans use punch and courage when they are out of their trenches. The Yankees call the Germans "Sewer fighters."

Triumphant Return of Seal Hunters

Into the Ice Floes of the Frozen North

With their tow lines swung over their shoulders, after their day's work is done and they have earned a well-earned rest, the men are dragging their "fur" in sacks over the snow. Often these crews bring in hauls valued at $5,000. The seal industry is one of the biggest and each year the output is greater, and the furs command a higher price.

Rest Rooms For Rural Women

Rest rooms have been established in more than 200 counties in the United States to meet the needs of the country women in town on business. They provide a place, says the United States department of agriculture, where the farm woman has a right, without asking any favors, to the use of facilities for rest and refreshment. They have been established by women's rural organizations in co-operation with other local organizations, with individuals, and with village, town, or county authorities; by business corporations operating private city markets, and by individual merchants. Where farm women's organizations have been interested in establishing rest rooms, local farm women's clubs have been able to arouse the necessary community interest in the need for rest rooms to insure their financial support. This has been done through co-operating with other local farm women's clubs, with organizations of women in town, with civic leagues, with chambers of commerce, and with county agents.

In co-operating with other clubs in establishing a rest room, any local farm woman's club may take the initiative. Opportunity is given at club meetings for discussing the need for a rest room, and other local clubs may be asked to arrange similar discussions. Such co-operation is facilitated in rural communities where local clubs meet together for joint sessions three or four times a year.

Through their organizations town and country women have co-operated in providing rest rooms near railroad stations, where the waiting-room facilities at the stations were inadequate. They have co-operated in establishing libraries which provide convenient and adequate rest rooms for town and country women. Aroused community interest frequently results in securing a vacant room in the town hall, county courthouse, public market, or other public building.

Frequently rest rooms are provided in dry goods stores and in grocery stores. A rest room at Kalamazoo, Mich., has been in use since 1882, and has become the common meeting place for country people living in different directions from the city. The number of country women dealing with these business houses warranted the establishment of rest rooms for the proprietors to meet the needs of their customers.

BACK YARD POULTRY

Uncle Sam expects you to keep hens and raise chickens, even though you do reside in a town or city.

Two hens in the back yard for each person in the house will keep a family in fresh eggs.

An interested child, old enough to take a little responsibility, can care for a few fowls as well as a grown person.

Every back yard should contribute its share to a "bumper crop" of poultry and eggs in 1918. Perhaps not all will find it profitable to raise chickens in town, but nearly everyone can well keep a few hens. The objection to the "crowing of the cock" can be overcome by keeping no cock. This will not affect egg production in the least.

The house for the back-yard flock should be inexpensive. A piano box or other large box may readily be converted into a suitable residence for the hens, and the runs may be very small.

Good hens, well cared for, will produce from ten to fifteen dozen eggs annually.

In time of peace the back-yard flock may be regarded as a profitable recreation; in time of war, a patriotic duty.

Efficient Lovemaking Man Is One Favored by Majority of Women, Asserts a Writer

To a woman the most interesting thing about a man is his relation to women. His manner of loving—or refusing to love—is what really interests her. According to a writer in the New York Mail, when a woman meets a man she sizes him up, not as a lawyer or a musician, or an actor, but as a lover. What sort of a husband would he make?

Says Miss Sydney Shields, once a newspaper woman, now an actress: "A certain physician, a friend of mine, once told me that other things being equal, a woman would in nine cases out of ten choose a man who had loved many women in preference to a man who had loved none. Most scientists agree with this."

I think it is Havelock Ellis who explains it in this wise: "Experience with many women gives a man's choice greater value, and, secondly, the more a man has sinned in this direction the greater the woman's chance to raise him to her own level. Every woman will admit that she prefers the man whom other women desire. As 'John' D. says, 'a woman is a competitor on every other woman as a competitor. Even if other women don't really desire the husband whom she loves, she will still imagine they do, and woman's imagination let loose is a fearful and wonderful thing.'

"I have discussed this subject with different kinds of women. The consensus of feminine opinion seems to be that the wholly inexperienced Romeo is a 'bill.' The man of the world knows how to make love, they say—and that's the all-important thing with women. He makes the beautiful woman think that she is intelligent, and the intelligent woman thinks she is beautiful; he is at all times the master of the situation, and women, even modern ones, adore a masterful man."

Widows' Pensions.

An act of congress of October 8, 1917, provided that from and after its passage "the rate of pension for a widow of an officer or enlisted man of the army, navy or marine corps of the United States who served in the Civil war, the war with Spain, or the Philippine insurrection, now on the pension roll or hereafter to be placed on the pension roll, and entitled to receive a less rate than hereinafter provided, shall be continued, to affect the additional allowance provided by existing pension laws on account of a helpless child or child under sixteen years of age." This law made $25 a month the uniform rate for all soldiers' widows then on the pension rolls at less than that rate or who should thereafter be placed on the pension roll.

HOW FRENCH WOMEN SAVE

Their Natural Talent for Economy Has Done Much to Help Withstand Hardships of War.

The French housewife, with her native talent for economy, has saved France up to the present time fully as much as have those fighting in the trenches. Good advice has been given to Americans, if they will only take it. Rich women who have had many servants now have few. Expenses are cut all along the line. Simple meals and simple habits replace elaborate ones. A lady buys clothes, but for orphans and refugees, not for herself.

Poor women, who must reduce simplicity to frugality—what do they do? They make one son buy two sons' worth by watching every centime. This, for countless women in Paris, means getting up at five o'clock in the morning to get a choice of things at the great market, Les Halles; walking long distances to go where things cost not so much as nearer home; walking instead of riding; keeping vigilant watch on the vendors' carts along the street for good values; turning plain foods into attractive dishes by a well-flavored sauce and a garnishing which costs nothing.

In the old residential quarters of Paris there are hundreds of women of aristocratic connections and moderate means who before the war had several servants and who now have none, or perhaps one. And to women of all degrees of wealth there could scarcely be a more interesting study than to see how these gentlewomen and their humble helpers give a charming touch to hard economy.

A representative household is one where the regular income has suddenly stopped, but leaving a little more than the small government allowance. The ingenuity of housekeeper and cook accomplishes wonders. In many a home butter may now be served once a week and perhaps with only one course.

Perhaps three large strawberries must suffice for each serving at dessert, but they will be served with a grace that makes the eating of them a pretty ceremonial. If gooseberries and currants are inexpensive they will combine remarkably with other berries for a compote. Perhaps dessert will be a spoonful of jelly with a simple little cake; or perhaps dessert will give way to cheese, taking on a new attractiveness on its plate of green leaves.—Montreal Star.

He—I bet you've told everyone what I told you as a secret last night. She—Why, the idea! There's a whole lot of girls I haven't seen yet.

Wasted Time.

School hours are business hours. The manufacturer or merchant cannot afford to waste time in business hours; the future manufacturer or merchant cannot afford to waste time in school hours. This is why we have the demand for vocational education.—Montreal Star.

MAYOR WILLING TO CONSULT ALDERMENBut In the Meantime He Vetoes License Ordinance Passed Several Days Ago, Giving Reasons in Detail.Mayor Canfield today filed the following veto with the city clerk:OFFICE OF THE MAYOR, Kingston, N. Y., May 9th, 1918.
The Honorable, The Common Council of the City of Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I herewith return the annexed proposed ordinance to amend the license ordinance with my disapproval.
In state matters a legislative proposition is passed upon by both the assembly and the senate before reaching the governor for approval or disapproval. In national matters a bill must be approved by both branches of congress before reaching the president for action. In many cities there are two bodies consisting of councilmen and aldermen which must pass upon legislation before it is sent to the mayor. In our city we consider one legislative body sufficient to pass upon city legislation before it is transmitted to the mayor. The responsibility placed upon the mayor is, therefore, equal to that of your honorable body in such matters.Often when proposed legislation is presented to your body for action, it is simply read over, and no time is given to the members to carefully study and analyze it. Errors often creep in legislation even when drafted by very careful and competent men. Bills introduced in the legislature are often amended many times and sometimes entirely changed before being "whipped" into final shape for action. Therefore, an alderman should not take exception to or oppose to any similar course in relation to any proposed ordinance introduced by him.It is my opinion that, except in cases where immediate action is necessary or advisable, any proposed ordinance should be referred to the committee on laws to report at the next regular meeting with their recommendation as to its legality, and as to whether it is proper in form, and in other ways, as to their approval or disapproval. This committee could and probably would have the alderman introducing it to such meeting, and it would be given proper study and due consideration, and your body would have the benefit of that before taking action.The ordinance in question is objectionable for one reason because a part of it, in fact the part constituting the only change made by the introducer, would "go a begging." Such part is useless and inconsistent with other similar parts. The part I refer to is the fee of $150.00 for a combined motion picture, vaudeville and opera license for places with a seating capacity of over five hundred. This ordinance is drawn with sealing fees for licenses for motion pictures, vaudeville and opera. The fees are balanced and increased gradually until this one item is reached. Such a fee would be a "dead letter." The ordinance permits of such a place obtaining separately a license for one year for motion picture for $40.00, and one for vaudeville for $40.00,
and one for opera for $40.00, a total of $120.00. No proprietor of such a place would be so foolish as to pay $150.00 to have the license on one paper when he could obtain the same rights on three papers for $120.00.
Besides this, the ordinance permits one to obtain a combined motion picture and opera license for $75.00, and a separate vaudeville license for $40.00, a total of $115.00. This would be the course any proprietor would pursue, rather than pay $50.00 more to have his license on one paper instead of two papers.Anyone would characterize a merchant as being ignorant who would offer to sell separately a coat for $10.00, and the vest for $5.00, and the trousers for $5.00, and then want $30.00 for the three if bought together. Any sensible purchaser would simply buy the articles separately and pay a total of $20.00, and the merchant would make no sales for $30.00.
If the figures other than $150.00 are proper and reasonable, then that
right the other figures are incorrect.
I am willing to sustain any reasonable fees fixed by your honorable body providing they are consistent with one another. I am not willing to stamp my approval upon a nugatory and ineffectual license fee.
I can conceive of no reason for any trivial "breathing the air" on this proposition. There is no occasion for anyone considering its possible effect upon any one special playhouse because the license for such places does not expire this year. Therefore, any effort to connect that place with anyone's opinion upon this question is in vain.I desire to further call your attention to the fact that there is another proposed ordinance before you for consideration covering the same subject, which should be disposed of in some way. The charter provides that when an ordinance is returned to the common council by the mayor with his disapproval, "the common council shall, at its next regular meeting thereafter, proceed to reconsider the ordinance." In reference to the other ordinance, after its return to you it was laid on the table. There might be a question raised as to whether the charter provisions have been complied with by laying it on the table and by taking no further action. Besides, it is still before you undecided and can be brought up for consideration at any time, and there is a grave question whether another ordinance inconsistent therewith in terms, but covering the same subject, can be legally and properly passed under the circumstances. Personally, I do not believe it can. Your honorable body has not, as yet, reconsidered the other ordinance, but only postponed the reconsideration thereof by laying it temporarily on the table.I desire to federate and repeat again that I will be pleased to have any alderman consult with me, and I will be very willing to co-operate with them in any possible way uponany subject of matter involving or affecting the city.
Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, JR.,
Mayor.SUES ESTATE ON NOTE FOR $3,000Action Brought by Dr. Oliver Against the Estate of Late Frank Y. Sahler to Recover Alleged Principal and Interest.The action brought by Dr. James Oliver of High Falls against Mrs.
Escher J. Sahler, as administratrix of the late Frank Y. Sahler, to recover $3,000 on a note alleged to have been given to him by the decedent, was begun in the supreme court on Thursday afternoon. The doctor also asks for interest amounting to $725.50. He was represented by Frank W. Brooks and John W.
Eckert.Mrs. Sahler was represented by Amos Van Etten and Virgil B. Van Wagonen. The defendant disclaims any knowledge of the existence of the note until it was brought to her and alleges that if the note was signed by the decedent it was when he was not physically or mentally capable of realizing what he was doing.James I. Van Demark, 60 years old, of Lake Mohawk, was the principal witness called, and many of his answers were of such a humorous nature that attorneys and the crowd in the court room laughed so heartily that the court had to rap for order.Van Demark stated that the decedent told him he lived at the home of Dr. Oliver for two years, off and on, and was treated by him, especially for rheumatism.The note was shown to Van De-mark by Mr. Brooks. Van Demark said that he was familiar with the decedent's handwriting and that the signature on the note was that of the decedent.The case was held up on several occasions Thursday afternoon to settle various legal points which the respective attorneys brought out. There were many objections to questions by both sides. The case was continued today.

Sunday Night Sermon.

"The Will to Victory!" will be the fourth in the series of Sunday night
Main Talks on War Topics delivered in St. James's Methodist Episcopal Church by the pastor. It is a theme that needs not only to be discussed, but it contains a truth to be practiced by the American people.
America having put its hand to the plow, must not turn back until the end of the furrow is reached. As on former Sunday nights, Dr. Barganath will speak with exceeding plainness, without fear or favor.
The service will begin at 8 o'clock instead of 7:30. At the morning service, Mothers' Day will be observed, and there will be appropriate decorations and music.

To the Editor of The Freeman.
Sir,—I write to tell The Freeman
how I appreciate the paper as an advertising medium. Beginning the latter part of April I had a ten-inch double column ad inserted in your paper, and through the paper's circulation here in New York I was enabled to secure an order for $60,000 lithographs and 200,000 engraved letterheads, which were turned out within ten days from the time the order was placed. Besides I have had several inquiries from readers of the paper in Kingston and Ulster county.

BIG BAPTIST CONVENTION.

To Open Next Week at Atlantic City, N. J.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 10.—
Baptist laymen in large numbers with many preachers of the denomination, delegates from churches in thirty-four states, will meet here May 15 for the opening session of the eleventh annual meeting of the Northern Baptist Convention. It is expected that between three and five thousand delegates will be present.
Many matters of interest to the Baptists will be considered, and the big convention promises to be a series of lively sessions.The future of the movement developed by the Baptist Laymen in their campaign for an Extra Million Dollars, headed by F. Wayland Ayer, of Camden, N. J., the well-known advertising man; will be decided on "Laymen's Day," Saturday, May 18. There is a strong sentiment in some quarters that some action should be taken to conserve this great movement with the forming of a permanent organization.
The matter will have the best thought of the convention.

TILSON ROAD CASE ARGUED.

Plaintiffs Object to Maintenance of Gates.The cases of Zina C. Contant and Anson S. Contant, appellants, against Iver E. Evers, respondent, and of Joseph Varkonick, appellant, against Evers, were argued before the apellate division of the supreme court at Albany Thursday. The appeals are from the amended judgments of Judge Hasbrouck, before whom the cases were tried some time ago. The question involved was a right of way over the Evers farm at Tilson.
Judge Hasbrouck decided that the plaintiffs had established their right to use the road in question. The judgment was amended by providing that gates should be maintained at both ends of the road and these gates should during the summer season be opened and closed by persons using this road. It is from this provision of the judgment that the plaintiffs appealed. DeWitt W. Ostrander is the attorney for the plaintiffs and Daniel B. Dero and Joseph M. Fowler represented the defendant.

Peculiar Presents for Bride.

In social circles of the Celestials the family of the bridegroom makes presents to the family of the bride of various articles a few days before the day fixed for the marriage. The presents generally consist of food, the lot and foot of a pig, the leg of a goat, eight small cakes of bread, eight torches, three pairs of large red candles, a quantity of vermilion and several bunches of firecrackers.

Naturally Felt Important.

"Who was the lady who just now complained to the manager that a clerk had not shown her the proper respect?" "That was Mrs. Sashby."
"She looked important." "She has a right to feel important. She's owed this firm over $1,000 for the past six months."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Feature Missing.

The moving picture business probably will never reach its zenith in the smaller towns until some device is perfected by which jokes may be sprung on the more prominent local bachelors in the course of the play, as the old theatrical troupes used to do.—Kansas City Star.

Wrong Somewhere.

A friend wants us to tell him if a certain citizen of this town is in respect to an upright and exalted man. Most people who know him regard him as such. But there must be something wrong about him, since he does not agree with us in politics and religion.—Houston Post.
